

Mt. Prospect Residents Complain of Rats from Arlington Heights

Mount Prospect residents along S. Tamarack say they have long complained to Arlington Heights officials for getting any results.

Mrs. T. Pomeroy, 1310 S. Tamarack, in the Mount Prospect subdivision, said that behind her house are two large rat

"I've called Arlington Heights Village Hall repeatedly, both before and after the flood last June," she said.

"After the heavy rains, both of the holes filled up with water, and the rats became infested with mosquitoes."

RATS ARE evidently so prevalent in the neighborhood that they appear almost everywhere at any time of the day. Few prints of the rodents can be seen in yards, on porches and sidewalks.

Mrs. Pomeroy said the rats have become bold enough to flip their tails over the foundation of her house, and on one occasion a rat turned on a neighbor's house, but it was too dark to see.

The Arlington Heights health inspectors, who have been sent, she said, and bailed the holes with grout, but there appears to be no way of controlling the owner of the property in order to fill the holes.

ANOTHER resident, Mrs. O. A. 1322 S. Tamarack, said she is worried about the danger to children from the rats. "We are trying to get something done before it's too late," she said.

The children use the excavations as a play area, Mrs.

Rue said, and apparently are not aware of the danger to their health. "We are worried about this," she said. "We are trying to get something done before it's too late, but since it is not their mother, they don't listen. If a rat bites one of those children, they will have to go through a whole series of rabies shots."

Although Arlington Heights Village Manager A. Hansen was not available for comment on Sunday, Prospector Mayor Daniel Conner said that his village might be able to interfere for the residents to Arlington Heights, and hopefully close up the holes.

Night Racing Betting Withdrawn

BY RICHARD CHARR

In an unexpected late Sunday development, Arlington Park and Belmont Jockey Club withdrew their petition for night racing on the 1968 season during the 1968 season.

At 3:30 p.m. Sunday Phil George, in charge of Arlington Park press relations, released a statement from Mrs. Marjorie L. Everett of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises, Inc. and William S. Miller of Belmont Jockey Club. "We respectfully withdrew our proposal, dated Jan. 5, 1968," the Everett-Miller statement said, "of for night thoroughbred racing on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening at the Arlington Park race track during the 1968 season."

Chairman Francis Crosby of the racing board had been advised by telephone in advance of the announcement.

IN AN OBVIOUS reference to the organization's reluctance in Arlington Heights, the announcement continued: "One of the tragic consequences of our petition was that all too often casual, unscrupulous persons were using the racing board for the public are turned out of the race meeting by individuals who seem adept at stirring up hatred and confusion."

The statement had strong praise for the Illinois Racing Board stating: "Moreover, that this kind of activity, as in the present instance, causes an undesired embarrassment to the general public servants and unnecessary and unreasonable demands on their time. We respect and revere the Illinois Racing Board and we will not be a party to the continuing of an after this character."

"OUR OFFER to experiment with night thoroughbred racing during the 1968 season at Arlington Park arose from two very important reasons: "It is thousands of individuals have expressed interest in thoroughbred racing."

but are denied the privilege of enjoying the sport because of their inability to attend the existing programs. "It is our awareness of the current existing economic plight of the horse owner, trainer and racing stable employee."

"We made this offer," the statement continued, "because we wanted to accommodate the wishes of those thousands of potential night time patrons and because we wanted to help the owner, trainer and racing stable employee."

Taking note of the declining attendance at thoroughbred race tracks across the country, Everett and Miller said: "The attendance at daytime thoroughbred tracks in this and other states has declined."

"Clearly, therefore, the revenue to the State of Illinois must ultimately decline, and with that decline will come the impairment of revenue to all the sports which racing has so long supported."

COMING FORTH today, Mrs. Everett told the Day. "From the comments in meetings, including the public hearing before the Illinois Racing Board on Saturday you would get the impression that everyone in Arlington Heights and the other suburbs are opposed to night racing at Arlington Park. I am sure that is not true."

"The day does not represent the thinking of the entire community. We have letters from very responsible people in Arlington Heights and the other suburbs who are only approving night time racing but speaking of it as a forward looking step."

"We have enjoyed working with Mayor Woods, Trustee Bremer and other officials of Arlington Heights, but I think they have been subjected to unwarranted and unreasonable pressure. I am particularly grateful for the cooperative efforts of the officials of Rolling Meadows and Palatine who have worked so effectively with us to develop reasonable solutions to the problem which might have been raised by a night racing program."

Commenting on the withdrawal of the night racing petition, Mayor John G. McDermott said: "The track have always been in good stead. We look forward to the future."

Text of Letter To Racing Board

Illinois Racing Board
1600 LaSalle Street
Chicago, Illinois

Gentlemen:

We respectfully withdraw our proposal dated Jan. 5, 1968 to offer night thoroughbred racing on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at Arlington Park.

One of the tragic consequences of our petition is that all too often casual, unscrupulous persons were using the racing board for the public are turned out of the race meeting by individuals who seem expert at stirring up hatred and confusion."

Moreover, that this kind of activity, as in the present instance, causes an undesired embarrassment to the general public servants and unnecessary and unreasonable demands on their time. We respect and revere the Illinois Racing Board and we will not be a party to the continuing of an after this character."

OUR OFFER to experiment with night thoroughbred racing during the 1968 season at Arlington Park arose from two very important reasons: "It is thousands of individuals have expressed interest in thoroughbred racing but are denied the privilege of enjoying it because of their inability to attend daytime programs, and TWO-Ours awareness of the current existing economic plight of the horse owner, trainer and racing stable employee."

We made this offer because we wanted to accommodate the wishes of those thousands of potential night time patrons and because we wanted to help the owner, trainer and racing stable employee."

Racing cannot exist without them.

The attendance at daytime thoroughbred race tracks in this and other states has declined. Clearly, therefore, the revenue to the State of Illinois must ultimately decline, and with that decline will come the impairment of revenue to all of the worthy causes which racing has so long supported, including Service and Recognition Training Fund (Soldiers Home), Fair and Exchange Fund (McGormick Place), General Revenue Fund (McGormick Place), and the Premium Fund and the Veterans Rehabilitation Fund.

Mr. David Novak, a world renowned economist who heads David Novak Associates of Santa Monica, Calif., in his recent article entitled, 'Economics of the Thoroughbred Industry,' said: "If something is not done soon about the racing industry's lagging growth rate, today's stagnation may become tomorrow's decline of the sport."

Respectfully submitted, Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises, Inc.

Pickets from Union Local 81 of the American Federation of Teachers Engineers, AFL-CIO, are still holding strong at the Western Electric Plant in Rolling Meadows, picking 24 hours a day, according to Union President Paul Chasler.

"We've been effective for the first week of the strike," he told The Day last night. "We talked to the boys we represent, and they are fully behind us and will support the strike. I have every indication to believe that the progress thus far will be continued."

No negotiation date has been set with the company yet, but we are scheduled to meet Thursday with the federal mediator, Commissioner Harry S. Haney.

"We've had tremendous support from other workers in the building who don't even belong to our union. We are carrying 85 per cent in total effectiveness."

"Many people are behind us. The issue we are standing on is very important."

Trustees to Consider Water Report Tonight In Special Meeting

The Arlington Heights village board is meeting in a special session this evening to report submitted to the village recently by consultant, Dr. John R. Sheaffer, University of Chicago scientist. The village took as a study of water availability, water use and water waste.

With the village of Arlington Heights having 25,000 to 25,500 in only seven years and with much more growth expected, the problem of securing adequate water supplies is an increasing concern.

Dr. Sheaffer's report deals with the question of falling water tables under the village. The report recommends that the village take as a study possible supplemental Lake Michigan water.

The Sheaffer report also deals with the long-range future retention of present as well as an evaluation of present.

Hit-Run Charge After Accident

Michael D. Nissen, of Cape Karlovitz, was arrested in Rolling Meadows by police Saturday night after being charged with leaving the scene of an accident and driving with a revoked driver's license.

What To Pack For Him

High-altitude air for a golfing outfit... light blue shirt with a ruffled yoke and white ruffled collar half shirt and white model golf shoes combine to make perfect ensemble.

For gala evenings about ship or where—the tropical worsted, all-white, double-breasted dinner jacket. The formal shirt is light blue and has a ruffled front and matching ruffled cuff.

Are you planning your escape from this "brisk" winter weather? A cruise, perhaps? If you are the female member of your household, you've probably already packed your new wardrobe. But what should you pack for your husband?

According to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, that is sure to need a sport coat, slacks and walk shoes for spectator sport or as sightseeing. Cruise-type formalwear also has definite niche in the winter wardrobe, especially if the traveler is going aboard ship or flying to a resort or hotel. For leisurely gala evenings. He will also need active sportswear for tennis, golf, fishing and boating.

SOME FASHION TIPS for men who are about to outfit themselves with a cruise wardrobe.

First, buy a Mazer. You will need at least one and two will not be too many. If it is to be just one, make that a light-colored selective from navy blue, gold, camel, one of the green tones, rust or a blue several shades lighter than navy. It can be a single- or double-breasted model with the double-breasted being more and longer. In your lightweight sport coat, some of which are double-breasted, too, go as well as your vacation mood dictates in pattern and color. Big, bold, beach plaids, wind-uppane overalls, lateral checks and both houndstooth and shepherd checks will be widely worn. If you don't feel the least bit competent. In the color of the plaids, shades range from white, through the pastel tones, brilliant red, orange, yellow and blue greens.

CRUISEWEAR slacks should include both plain colors and patterns, and of course, the same applies to walk shoes. Key your slacks colors to your sport coats and Mazer.

Casual shoes to wear with those outfits are really casual in color, texture and model. While, as returned to men's shoes—many because of mass-made "homocentric" which have the look of fine leather plus the comfort and can be obtained with the swipe of a dime.

Sweaters are a cruisewear must. Take your pick of high shades or soft blended hues in either pullovers or cardigans or in matching sets. Make the pullover either a turtleneck or mock turtle with the sweater sets.

Homemaker's Notebook

BY LU ANN BLAIR

It is important to feed the birds now that the ground is covered with snow. We have been advised by a maker of commercial bird food that it is detrimental to a bird's health and suggest that instead of mixing homemade mixtures with bird seed that you buy some. Remember the seed, let cool and set, then mix in the seed. Pour into a container and put in the refrigerator to harden. Tie with a cord or thin wire and hang in a tree.

Some of our readers save small aluminum pans and fill them. These can be placed on a window sill or bird feeder. If you have a little extra time make a treat for the birds. Mix 1½ cups of corn meal and 1½ cups of peanut butter with ½ cup of flour to make a dough. Roll into balls and let dry for a few days. Add seed if desired. The birds will really love these.

In 1968 we suggest that you try your housewarming with a different room each week. In this way you will be sure that each room eventually gets a thorough cleaning and your undivided attention.

AS YOU WORK your way into the sewing room, we have the suggestion to pass along to you: Bring order to your pattern by making a pattern study with compartments for different types of patterns.

Put the top front of several pattern "books" on each side of the top back and run diagonally down to the middle of the front side. Cut straight across the front. Stand these books in a row and separate. Paint the books and decorate with pictures of spoons and other sewing accessories.

Label the front of each section with types of patterns to be stored in that compartment—skirts, dresses, blouses, baby clothes, etc. Your patterns will be neat and easy to find when needed.

If the foot pedal of your sewing machine slides around, put a small ring with a foam rubber backing under the pedal or use a rubber floor mat.

To Discuss Youth Views

A discussion of youth from the religious and civic viewpoints will be held at 8:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 8 at Clearbrook Center, as a part of the regular meeting of the Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club.

Guests for the program will include the Rev. William Herman and the Rev. Walter Olson of the Community Church of Rolling Meadows and Sgt. William Golden, youth officer of the Rolling Meadows Police Dept. Residents, neighbors and friends are invited to attend. Anyone interested in attending may contact Mrs. Robert Branch, 338-2344.

BPW To Meet At Carousel Thursday

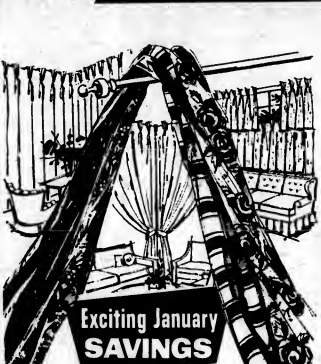

The Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Jan. 11, at the Carousel Restaurant. Social hour will begin at 7:30 a.m.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schaefer of Mount Prospect, chairman of the civic participation committee, has been collecting food items for the past month for distribution to newsmen in Vietnam. The committee hopes to get these items to men by Valentine's Day. All members are urged to bring their donations to the January meeting. If in doubt as to what to bring, call Mrs. Schaefer at CL 3-7022. Cash donations are welcome. The club welcomes the following new members: Mrs. M. A. Land of Des Plaines, Mrs. M. T. Welch of Wheaton, Mrs. H. Schenck of Arlington Heights, Mrs. M. C. Conklin of Mount Prospect, Mrs. A. Grotzki of Des Plaines, Mrs. R. L. Lomen of Arlington Heights, and Mrs. T. L. Sears of Mount Prospect.

Working women in the area are invited to attend the meeting. For reservations call Mrs. Ruth Morton at CL 3-7316.

For casual sportswear the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear recommends a lightweight turtleneck under a richly colored cashmere V-neck sweater completed with tartan pleated trousers.

KNITTED sport shirts remain popular for cruisewear including all styles—polo collars, crew-necks, square-necks, V-necks, turtle and mock turtle necks.

A generous assortment of ascots and neckties is also recommended. Men who intend to do some swimming should take along a couple of cubana ties. The ones with terry cloth linings help you dry off fast.

Don't forget a colorful fabric hat or dashing broad-brimmed beachcomber straw to keep off some of the sun. For those gala evenings, a tuxedo or tuxedo jacket or tuxedo shirt.

Dialogue

"You know, the disagreement between the people at the Arlington Park race track and the people and officials of the surrounding towns suggests to show that they all really like each other."

"How do you figure they like each other? The charges were getting worse there for a while. And the protest did come. Min. Everett to cancel her request for night racing at the track."

"Yes, but that was predictable when you look at the situation in the proper perspective. The race track has been here so long that the people are used to it. They consider it to be theirs."

"They do not. That's preposterous."

"No, it isn't. It's a lot like the situation anywhere there's a military base in this country. In most cases, the military base was the first large industry, so to speak, in the area. It's a town grew up."

"And as it did, so the people in town got accustomed to their base and eventually got tired of it and the people going to and from it."

"So they decided the military base had to go?"

"Yes. Since it was their base, it was not considered unreasonable to ask it to stop bothering the town and go away. That, happened in a report town in the east not long after World War II."

beginning before the country itself had gotten a start. Many of the whaling men lived in the town, some of the ships were built there and it was also the home port for a lot of the crew."

"When the electric light came and the whaling oil for lamps, the industry declined and the town lost its primary business. But then a new industry came along to save the town. The submarine base had been invented."

"And as luck would have it, the company that built the Navy's first submarine began operations in the town. So the Navy built a submarine base and school up the river. And the town thrived, with all the submarines being built and the sailors spending money."

...with George Hamilton

"But the people in the town got tired of all this. They wanted, by the time WW II was ending, that the Navy marines and the Navy would just go. Since they didn't know if they would attack the marines in warfare again, they nearly did close up completely."

"The whole idea looked like they wanted, they sent a delegation to Washington to ask if there wasn't some way to keep the base open. The Navy found a way and now everyone's happy. The town is making money and once again can afford to have the Navy."

Day by Day

Improvisation

By Catherine O'Donnell

It looked like a scene from Macbeth when the scene, walking to the scene. There on Grove was a regular fine morning moving all by itself down the street.

But herbarist, curious investigation revealed that between two of the discarded Christmas trees was a small boy, Gary Nye of S. Waukegan.

He is 11 years old, a student at Miner Junior High School and he was working for his boy scout patrol. The scene was going to build itself out of the trees.

"There's more of us out looking," he volunteered, looking raw, red, healthy and happy in the action of the scene.

Last night was the scheduled date for the Shrove Tuesday. The burning of the trees in an annual social event whose beginning is lost in as-quity. Every year the trees are collected from the youngsters who drag them from the top of the big field next to the Lutheran Old People's Home.

Recollections and popcorn were served to the children. The trees were cut and the scene was served to the scene. With that and with the two of these huge bodies the cold was forgotten.

There were many humorous house parties afterwards to those everyone could get a chance to remember what their neighbor looked like in the winter. It is a nice custom that their neighbors looked like all over the streets.

Chuck and Phil Bergman of N. Harvard were in charge this year. Ask them if you don't know what plug it is.

AND PALM TREES

"It was so warm," began Mary, smiling, looking down at her little finger nail, just as the scene was served to the scene. With that and with the two of these huge bodies the cold was forgotten.

Travel Trouble

Like Prohibition, a clamp-down on American travel about may generate more troubles than it is designed to cure, and that as difficult to cure.

The problem is the balance of payments deficit - the difference between what America spends abroad and what it earns abroad. In an attempt to solve it, President Johnson has ordered restrictions on U. S. business investments overseas.

But since the unfavorable balance is not one of imports over exports (the ratio is favorable to the United States) but is caused entirely by rampant spending, he has limited that official trips may be taken to discourage tourism if his appeal for a voluntary curtailment proves no results.

Among such steps are a tax on airplane and ship tickets and a tax, of up to $6 a day for every day spent outside the Western Hemisphere.

Already, large question marks are casting their shadows over such schemes. How, for instance, are people to be prevented from going to Canada and boarding a transatlantic airliner there? And who is to determine what portion of a businessman's salary in Europe was devoted to business purposes, and would probably be tax-free, and how much was for pleasure, and how much for family tax-free?

Another trouble with travel taxes, as New York Times columnist James Reston has pointed out, is that they usually hit the wrong people.

They would not keep the wealthy jet set and the big spenders at home, but they would hit hard at school teachers and students and others who have saved up for years for a trip to Europe.

The balance of payments problem is a very serious one, and certainly every investment decision should be offered to encourage Americans to see America first, and the neglected rest of the Western Hemisphere second.

But there is something that goes against the grain in the idea that the free-spending, deficit-ridden government of the United States, the bastion of individual freedom, can no longer afford to allow its citizens to come and go as they please.

Remember when a call to California was a long hauler?

We do. We also remember when bread was 7¢ a loaf, sirloin sold for 38¢ a pound, and it cost $4.65 for a three minute station-to-station yelling match between Chicago and New York. But that was back in the "good old days" of the twenties. Since then, just about everything has gone up, while the cost of Long Distance has steadily gone down. A call to San Francisco that cost $11.00 in the twenties, costs $1.60, plus tax, today (and if you dial direct after Midnight, you pay just 65¢, plus tax).

And as we lowered our prices, Illinois Bell customers have been able to lower their voices.

At Illinois Bell, we've always working to make your telephone a bigger bargain than ever—not just in Long Distance, but in your basic telephone service as well. An old-fashioned idea? Maybe. But it has helped Illinois Bell provide you with phone service that's as modern as tomorrow.

So, if you're a cost-conscious buyer behind the times.

Sanitary Trustee Explains Stand

EDITOR:

In 1967, while basements flooded and raw sewage, inadequate Metropolitan Sanitary District interceptors, the Board of Trustees has spent 3 million dollars to purchase land for a project not yet proven economically feasible.

There are areas of Cook County that pay taxes to the Sanitary District not being served by any interceptor. There are other areas whose present growth is inhibited by inadequate and overloaded sewers and/or lack of treatment facilities. But the Board of Trustees has chosen to enter the real estate business with a dollar now available for a financial improvement on which it has made no policy indeed serving these needs.

General Superintendent Bacon and the Democratic members of the Board of Trustees are already willing to stamp lack of Federal funds for liability to build the 18 million dollar plant in the construction budget. (In order to balance the budget for construction, a figure of $7 million must be granted to the district, although it is conceded we will realistically only receive about 4.7 million dollars. This means construction project of 6 million will not be built in 1968 or 1969, but will have to be carried over in the budget.) Nevertheless, the Board in 1967 considered three million dollars for a feasibility study and another three million dollars for real estate for the project the Civic Federation doubts the district should be involved on a go-along basis. Let all.

While I will be the first to say we must plan for the problem of the 1960's and I support the Board's study of the bold and imaginative Deep Tunnel project, I am not ready to accept the concept that money should be spent on the Deep Tunnel land at the expense of the backing of unneeded money.

There were needs caused from an inefficiently managed sewerage system which the Board of tax reduction did not give up. The Board of Trustees is already willing to stamp lack of Federal funds for liability to build the 18 million dollar plant in the construction budget. (In order backing in promises for need of construction. Until we can prove to the community that it has become a problem to the community, we have to wait for the Federal, State and local levels. These five promises have contributed to the frustration, fleeing and crime we are experiencing along the coast.

As an elected representative of Sanitary District taxpayers, I am not in good financial position to vote to support an underfunded 1968 budget. It

Prospect Keeps MSL Lead

Knight Press Flattens Grens, 78-58

By JIM MASKE

Never again did Elk Grove catch a glimpse of the lead. During one stretch of 23 points, the Knights scored nine points without a shot from the other side. Backed by Gurn, Haskell, and Loucas, plus a free thrower, the Knights ended the game with a 78-58 lead. By that time Prospect had begun clearing his bench and the game was all but over.

THE KNIGHTS led the of in almost every statistical department. They hit .466 from the floor, getting off 73 shots, while Elk Grove hit .345 with just 53 field goal tries. Prospect also grabbed 45 rebounds, 10 more than the Lions. The win enabled Prospect to maintain its Mid-Suburban League lead. The Grens are now 1-2 in league play.

Fremd Overwhelms Cards, 74-46; Freeman Scores 27

By TOM WALSH

The already unpredictable Mid-Suburban League basketball game had a little lighter Friday night as the underdog Fremd Vikings closed Arlington's 74-46. Offensively, the Vikings' utilized a series of set plays throughout the early stages of the game, gradually building a healthy lead. The winner's defense continually kept the Cards off balance, alternating from a floating zone defense to a heavy full-court press.

Cards' superior height also hurt Arlington. The Vikings controlling the boards, 14 rebounds to 26. And the Vikings collected 24 points on free throws stemming from 22 Arlington fouls, while the Cards collected only four charity points on 12 Fremd infractions.

JUNIOR FORWARD Dean Schmeider was high-point man for the Redskins, hitting six of 10 field goal attempts and five free throw attempts, but Fremd outscored him 15 points before being outed late in the third quarter. Auxiliary guard Doug Schmeider, replacing the ill-served R. J. Collins, followed Schmeider with 12 points.

Free Freeman, a 6-2 forward, and Gerry Gryphus, a 5-9 guard, combined for 49 of the Vikings' 74 points. Freeman compiled 27 points on 10 field goals and seven charity shots while Gryphus checked up 22 points on six of 15 field goal attempts and 10 of 13 free throw attempts.

Fremd opened the clash with its effective press, coasting to an early 9-2 lead before the Cardinal offense came to life. The Vikings continued their scoring rampage.

Wheeling J.V. Blows 15-3 Lead
Wheeling's basketball junior varsity lost to Miami West 54-49 Saturday after building a 15-3 first half lead.

The Warriors fought back to tie the score at 15-13 in the third period, then they failed to stay at 17-15. Kim Denard kept Wheeling seniors with 17 points and added six rebounds, while Jim Jolley added 11 points and eight rebounds.

Randy Hays and Bill Markworth each scored 14 points for Miami West, and Gary Hunt contributed 13.

throughout the opening quarter, eventually setting the first quarter advantage to a healthy 24-11. Statistically, the second quarter proved the Cardinals' most successful of the game, the team scoring 14 points on seven of 13 two-point attempts. The Cards' defense held Fremd to only seven baskets in the frame, but the Vikings utilized four Arlington fouls to add six points to their second quarter total, making the half-time score 44-5.

Falcons Battle Palatine, 56-51

Forest View had to go into overtime to do it, but finally put down Palatine 56-51 Friday for its second Mid-Suburban League basketball win. The Braves never led, and worked up to a tie only once at 10-10, before Brian Scholp popped in a shot in the game's closing seconds to create a 49-49 deadlock and bring on the extra period.

But the Falcons came back, scoring 22-20 in the overtime period, with Mike Messer with five points in the final minutes.

FOREST VIEW compiled 22 points on 11 field goals and seven charity shots while Brian Scholp checked up 22 points on six of 15 field goal attempts and 10 of 13 free throw attempts.

Meteors Smash Lions

St. Victor ran into a good big man and a tight two-one defense at De La Salle Saturday night and dropped a 71-41 Chicago Park League game. Forced to shoot from the floor, the Lions' two-point shooting of 6-8 LaSalle Martin, the Lions' outside shot, they shot just 27.9 percent, turning the ball over 19 of 68 shots from the floor. Martin, meanwhile, was ripping apart the Lions' defense, taking top points at the headline and banking in easy, short shots. His 30 points led the Lions' 71-41 victory. When the Lions missed the shot, Martin got a 22-24 lead and control of the game.

At half-time, the Knights led, 39-24. THE GRENADES, forced into a four-point deficit, managed a mild rally in the third quarter. Bob Arnesen, who edged the bench and almost single-handedly caught the scoring Kings by the collar.

Arnesen's six of seven baskets, including four free throws, sealed the ball game, and generally stirred up the Lions' fans. His baskets, combined with another by Pomeroy and Pomeroy's two free throws, trimmed the Knights lead to 53-45. But Buech Leonard tipped in an Ed Haskell shot to make it 55-45, a 10-point margin at 25-25 at the end of three quarters.

MARTIN scored eight points in the second period, including two on a falling, back-hand shot at the buzzer, and effectively kept the Lions shooting from 15 or more feet outside.

Reising kept the Meteors from streaking out of sight, as he scored four times from the left corner and at the half. De La Salle held a 36-18 advantage.

Martin, a senior, added ten more points, all on tips and 10 free-throw attempts, in the third period. De La Salle put on seven straight points before Mark Pomeroy jumped for a Viate with a jumper from inside the key.

Sanitary District Public Hearing Tonight in Mount Prospect

Officials of the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago will hold a public hearing in Mount Prospect Village Hall at 8 p.m. today on a proposed five-year improvement program to correct drainage problems in its vast sewer system.

The proposed program would provide protection for communities which failed to comply with the schedule is divided into one, two, three, and five-year districts. The schedule for the first year is an report on the location and location of all improper and illegal sewer connections to streets, curbs and surface drains, leading into the sewerage system within the village; locations of all sections of the sewer having concrete infiltration (leakage), and the locations of all sections having inadequate capacity.

THE DISTRICT would also show such construction work as to disconnect all illegal water waste from the sewer system. Three years would be the limit for communities to start paying for sections of sewer. Any new sewer system issued under the community could show that every effort had been made to comply with the schedule.

THE DISTRICT would plan for lighting regulations in the district. The schedule for the last five years. The district would permit for communities to start paying for sections of sewer. Any new sewer system must be designed to relieve an inadequate sewer system. Construction of sewer replacements must begin during the next year.

Some of the problems associated with the sanitary district are the inadequate sewer lines, the overflow of raw sewage into the lake at Central. The sanitary district is trying to get the sanitary districts to maintain them in order to provide better service to

Father of 11 Shot to Death

By Charles Morawetz

The father of 11 children was shot to death yesterday afternoon and his wife was seriously wounded in their Westwood Park Farm, 4000 Westwood Park, about two blocks east of Rand Rd. Kenneth Weidner, 42, shot in the chest was pronounced dead at 1:35 p.m. at the Northwestern Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

His brother Jerome, 41, the father of seven children, was shot in the abdomen, the chest and the leg and was lying in the serious condition at the same hospital. The surgeons surgery for more than four hours yesterday afternoon.

SHERIFFS police were hunting in connection with a shooting two years ago in which a family of seven, including a brother, a sister, a son, and a daughter, were shot to death in their home.

The farm hands, Kenneth Weidner, 42, and Jerome Weidner, 41, were shot to death in their home.

Drager was hiding yesterday for fear of his life, according to Mrs. Kenneth Weidner who gave an account of the shooting to a Day reporter.

She said that her brother-in-law, Jerome, dragged himself into the house hiding in the kitchen and then he killed him.

"I can't, I didn't know what to do," said Mrs. Weidner. "I was afraid to go out because I was scared they would shoot me, too."

SHE said she did not know about the motive of the shooting but she thought it was a quarrel over working overtime.

Drager took the two wounded brothers to the hospital.

The farm hands had abandoned their belongings in the farm house on the spot of the shooting. Throughout the afternoon members of the victim's family passed them many times but nobody removed them.

REPORTEDLY they told the patrolman their car had broken down.

Then the labored hitched another ride which took them as far as Rio Rand Motel in Des Plaines. A third driver took them into Chicago.

"We hope to find them soon," said Lt. Graham. He said that police have found all the drivers who gave the farm a ride.

The gun thought to have been used in the shooting was a chrome-plated, 38-caliber revolver, according to Lt. Graham.

He said that residents of unincorporated areas, the farm is located in one, are not permitted permits to carry guns.

AS POSSIBLE OWNERS of future applications by the track he pointed to the letter of withdrawal which stated that night racing would not be resumed for 1948.

He said he thought the tone of the letter was in reference to the letter of thoroughbred racing which was being considered by the Illinois Horse Racing Commission.

WOODS said his talk with track officials will not be connected with any possible future negotiations on night racing.

"We do not intend to let the track be taken over by the state," he said.

But he said he thought that the withdrawal of the track may not be the end of the night racing problem for the community is concerned.

Woods Seeks End of Track Problems

By RICHARD CRAB

The scope of the financial problems of the Arlington Heights Public School of District 25 came into sharp focus Monday evening when the Board of Education learned that 35 to 40 additional staff members will be required to run the new classroom building to house 450 additional students expected to report in September.

Twenty new classrooms are being built out there existing Dist. 25 schools, by Hill School in the northern section of Arlington Heights in getting 12 of the 25 classrooms.

Other new classrooms are being built at Dryden and Kensington Schools.

ENGINEERS reported to the board last evening that the school on the new classrooms is five weeks behind schedule, most of the delay being due to late shipment of the structural steel.

In December, the Dist. 25 board of education directed the administrators to prepare a study of the additional staff requirements for the 1948-49 school year.

In presenting the projection of new staff, Assistant Superintendent Robert Campbell reported that at least 37 additional staff members will be required to maintain the same educational offering at no reduced cost of new classroom being built.

THE ADDITIONAL staff will include fifteen new grade school teachers, two new school physical education teachers, a grade school music teacher, one instrumental music teacher, one television programmer and eight non-teaching personnel.

Following board review, the budget for the additional staff will be compared. Dist. 25 operates 14 grade schools and three junior high schools.

Each year from 20 to 25 new staff members have been added, depending upon the number of new classrooms being built.

Architects for the Rand Institute High School, scheduled to be opened in September, 1949, reported that the school board that was used for heating. Earlier it appeared electricity might be used to heat the new building.

Next Friday morning, 9:30 the administrators of Dist. 25 will meet with the attendance area chairmen of the various schools. That objective will be to chart ways to increase the revenue to Arlington Heights Public Schools. A number of other local school boards are also meeting to discuss the matter have already been scheduled.

The Dist. 25 junior high schools have been offered membership in the North Arlington Association, an organization which until now has recognized only colleges and high schools.

A. Todd Puffy, South Junior High principal, is a member of the Illinois Committee for the North Central Association. Puffy said "there will be great value in comparing the performance of our schools."

The Dist. 25 Board took action Monday evening to appoint a spring election for the purpose of naming two Board members to the Board. The election will be held April 19. The period for filing is from Feb. 28 to March 23.

A certain "little boy blue" was found in the back of a hardware store.

The owner may claim the wallet at the office or the front desk of the hardware store. Mrs. Erick said.

Mrs. Ruth Erick, an employee of the store at 121 E. Davis, Arlington Heights, said the wallet was found in the store Thursday. The only identification was a picture of a man.

"We think it belongs to a little boy and he must be like a little boy since he is lost," Mrs. Erick said.

"The picture in the wallet shows several little boys and one of them is an older boy at a birthday party," she said.

Dialogue

"It looks like the only way to be anyone these days is write a book on whatever subject you may have a little or lot of knowledge. Everyone's getting into the act."

"Yes, I know what you mean. I've read that even college professors are under a 'publish or perish' pressure meaning that if they don't write books on their subjects they may not be kept in their jobs at least they won't advance to a better one."

"That's right. For example, an archeology professor is no one unless he can come up with something like a bibliography of Sarcrit as Translated from the Records of a Persian Rug Pudding. And even aviators are writing books about famous people who have been writing the former employees of those famous people are writing books telling all the REAL things about them."

"That's the danger because of the trend, you are planning to write a book about me."

"Well, yes I have been giving it some thought."

"Why is the famous person you are going to immortalize? Someone you know? Or a name?"

"I probably won't be about anyone famous. They're usually not too interesting."

How about a book about someone most people hardly ever notice? I think I'll write a book about our telephone switchboard operators at the Bell."

"What could you say about them? Haven't that a routine job?"

"Some people may think so. But it isn't really. At least it doesn't seem so from our viewpoint in the news department. Why I can remember the first day I met one of our switchboard operators."

"I was sitting at the switchboard and had told me to use it was back in the days when we were all new here. I looked up from the desk and there was the switchboard operator."

Only I didn't know that yet. "Was she your?" she asked. "In George Hamilton."

"No, I mean what are you, does, what's the extension number on your phone?"

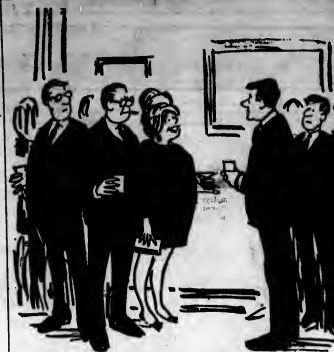

"Oh it's 25," I answered. And that was the last time anyone asked. From that day on until about a year after I stopped sitting at that desk, I had to go over it to answer my calls."

"Why didn't you tell someone about it?"

"Well, usually the evening operators were on duty when I was, and I had to interrupt conversations with her by saying, 'Excuse me, please.'"

"I was sitting at the switchboard and had told me to use it was back in the days when we were all new here. I looked up from the desk and there was the switchboard operator."

...with George Hamilton

"Oh, yes, of course! You're The Mr. Vance—what ever happened to Cyprus?"

When you've attained your 15th year, you're entitled to your own home or at least to your own achievement. On behalf of our state, the Illinois Sequenquennial Commission has done just that by taking a 60-page special advertising section from the January issue of Fortune magazine.

Entitled "Illinois: Mid-American Empire," the magazine is the product of the one-time Prairie State are depicted in levels covering the pages of the national magazine.

JOHN COTEN, 1865

Golfview Dr., Barrington, developed and co-ordinated the section, which includes 29 four-color pages, 794 illustrations, and 2395 black and white, featuring such writers as Herman Kohler, editor of the Chicago Sun-

Times Book Week, and Lloyd Wood, editor of Chicago's American.

Kotter is an executive of Illinois Bell Telephone Company. He was appointed in 1967 to be the director of business and industrial relations of the Illinois Sequenquennial Commission and serves as a volunteer member of the state commemorative planning group.

IN CHOOSING the new Illinois Mid-American Empire, the commission is focusing the eye on the nation and the world on Illinois as a complex of industry and of homegrown wealth that the original spirit of it as a far-flung area of wheat and corn acreage lifted up to a dot are often given and stirred through them after the Black Hawk War.

Significantly, it has become more than just the "Land of Lincoln," while that title remains a proud one for Illinois to cherish. The 60-page promotion of the state's resources as an ideal location for industry and for people, with marked expansion in city growth and suburban living a continuous fact.

Among such obvious assets as the state's natural beauty, its cultural and educational advances, Illinois is described in the special ad section as a strategic business location, public service and the advantages transportation have in every key field, available in material, labor, and power.

THE TREMENDOUS part played by the suburbs in the state's progress for it is a matter of statistics. Ralph Newman, a U.S. Secretary of Commerce, has said that the state's economic growth is to be commensurate with the state's 150th year of statehood.

New Surgical Techniques Of Help to Clot Victims

By G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

When a blood vessel is torn or ruptured, it is a life-threatening emergency. This is a life-threatening emergency. Sometimes, however, a vein becomes inflamed and clotting occurs within its walls. When a clot is small it will be absorbed in a couple of weeks but, if it keeps enlarging, fragments may break off and travel into the arteries.

When the arteries get progressively small the further they are from the heart, the result is more serious because of a lack of adequate collateral.

Persons who have had a stroke or a heart attack due to an arterial blockage are not so fortunate. These drugs will not dissolve the offending clot. As best they may prevent further clot formation or extension of the existing clot.

Furthermore, they are not so unimpaired because they take away the protective coat of the artery, making it more susceptible to further clotting. If a small hemorrhage starts anywhere in the body, the victim may bleed to death unless prompt corrective measures are applied. For this reason, many doctors have little enthusiasm for the long-

A Shop for Area 'Sew-and-Sews'

Sweden Cerebral Hospital "Employee of the Year" award winner, Walter Dahlgren of Menasha, Wis., is pictured with his family. Dahlgren, 50, is a dream come true for Ethel Glaser. The nurse of spirit can be heard among the bright silks, linens and other beautifully gay prints and fabrics, neatly stacked for the "new and sews" of the area.

Walter Dahlgren, Employee of Year

Employees of Sweden Cerebral Hospital, 2145 N. California Ave., Chicago, have honored a palmer in the maintenance department by electing him "Employee of the Year."

Walter Dahlgren, 50, N. Fairview, Mount Prospect, has worked at the north side hospital since June, 1951. More than 350 of the 500 employees took part in the voting. He was presented with an engraved gold watch by Paul W. Brandt, vice chairman of the board of directors.

Runners-up for the honor were two women employees, Mrs. Myrtle Holmberg, a cashier in the cafeteria, and Miss Eunice Smith, a secretary in charge of payroll.

BY DOLORES HAIGH
Ethel, thimble, needles and pins, that's the way a shop begins.

The Golden Thimble, located at the corner of Wolf and McDonald Rds., is a dream come true for Ethel Glaser. The nurse of spirit can be heard among the bright silks, linens and other beautifully gay prints and fabrics, neatly stacked for the "new and sews" of the area.

Mrs. Glaser's husband, Al, has been in the fabric business for many years.

"At each convention or sales meeting every representative's wife had to make her own outfit for the banquet," Ethel recalls. "We used the fabrics the company offered and the fashions were terrific."

"We always enjoyed sewing and thought it would be fun to have a shop with special fabrics, patterns and findings."

Now it is a reality and the grand opening will be Jan. 11, 12 and 13.

Mrs. Glaser is the mother of two boys, James and Alan, and is a past president of the Prospect Heights Woman's Club. The family attends the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

For the special opening celebration there will be exhibits for the first 250 patrons and, of course, a golden thimble for all.

Joint PTA Session

The PTA of Wilson and Patton Schools will meet jointly in the Patton multipurpose room at 8 tonight. A panel discussion on "The First 5," and in-depth study of the reading program in District 25, will be presented with William Friesche, director of instruction for District 25, acting as moderator.

Minute March

The Arlington Heights 53 Minute March on Central Park will be held during the week of Jan. 14. The public's generous support will make more service available to applicants than could be handled by the staff alone.

Mrs. Ethel Glaser of Prospect Heights, owner of the new fabric shop The Golden Thimble, shows a "specialty" by Margaret. This "dome in a box" provides plate stands for the week of Jan. 14. The public's generous support will make more service available to applicants than could be handled by the staff alone.

Mrs. Johnson At PTA Council

The Arlington Heights Council of Parent Teacher Associations will hear a discussion of the worth and significance of PTA activities at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 10 at Ridge School, 800 N. Pauline.

Mrs. George A. Johnson, chairman of parent and family life education for the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be the featured speaker. If time permits, a question and answer session will follow her talk.

Mrs. Johnson also serves as Extension assistant on the KCTF Dist. 24 board. She has served as president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Chicago Northwest Council, and PTA publications assistant, all in Dist. 24, and has worked with the Parent-Teacher Association Leadership program of the University of Chicago for 7 years.

Delegates to the Council nominating committee will be elected at a short business meeting.

HEIH To Meet Saturday

"Building and Preserving Your Net Estate" will be the topic of the 11:45 a.m. meeting of the Home Economics to Homestead of Greater Chicago Saturday, Jan. 13 at Webster's Hearing Restaurant, State and Madison, Chicago.

J. J. Manderson Jr., specialist in agricultural law from the University of Illinois at Urbana will be guest speaker.

Doctor To Address Mothers' Club

The Double Dayle Mothers of Twin Club will hear Dr. Frank H. Meyer, gynecologist, at 8 p.m., Thursday, in the meeting room of the Lutheran & Ochsler Funeral Home, 2000 Northview, Arlington Heights.

Any mother of twins is invited to join the club. Further information may be obtained from membership chairman Mrs. Robert Berg (377-5453).

Pick 'Operation Sparkle' Winners

The Arlington Heights Garden Club announces the winners of the recent Christmas decoration contest.

First place in the house category was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Good, 516 E. Broad. Their entire house was wrapped as a Christmas package complete with large bow and the from Ronald Good wishing his family a Merry Christmas.

First place in the door decoration category is awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Taylor, 25 S. Dwyer; second place to Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Miller, 1914 N. Kempton.

Prize TEE laws competition top prize is awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Assar Lucas, 419 S. Phelps; second prize to Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Swanson.

2208 N. Champlain. All winners have been invited to the Jan. 22 meeting of the Arlington Heights Garden Club when Charles "Operation Sparkle" for the evening program, will award the prizes. Prizes are gift certificates from Klabs's Nursery, Foreman Hardware, Northwest Meat Cuts, Arlington Furniture and Workman's Bike Shop.

Judges for the contest were: Robert Green, Arlington Heights Man of the Year; Joe Sobole, John White, village trustee; Lou Gustafson, president of the Arlington Heights Garden Club; Diane Moser, president of Arlington Heights Garden Club; and Terri Benson, secretary of Stonegate Assn. Arnold Lappay was chairman of the contest.

Discuss Problems Of Growth

Intergovernmental relationships and problems of metropolitan growth will be reviewed and discussed by the local League of Women Voters at their unit meetings next week.

The unit meetings will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 13 at the home of Mrs. W. Eugene Harris, 105 E. Berkshire Drive, Mount Prospect; at 8:15 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 14 at the Congregational Church, Kenilworth in Arlington Heights; and at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 17 at the home of Mrs. W. J. Martin, 437 S. Windsor Drive, Arlington Heights.

THE ARLINGTON Heights League, which draws its members from six communities in Wheeling and Elk Grove townships, is completing a two-year study of the growth for coordinated planning between governing bodies.

League members, who have studied the various methods of cooperation which can be employed by local governments, will try to reach agreement on which methods are preferable and on different levels of planning should be coordinated and financed. Opinions of all leagues in the county will be pooled and analyzed by the Cook County L.W.V.

Mrs. George Schroeder and Mrs. Frank Potts of Arlington Heights are co-chairmen of the local league's government planning committee. Assisting them are Mrs. W. J. Martin of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Tom Lusk of Oak Park.

New Postal Rates Apply To Mexico, Canada Mail

The new domestic postal rates also apply to most mail for Canada and Mexico. Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said.

"Postage rates for most types of mail sent from the United States to Canada or Mexico are based on a long-standing policy of reciprocal domestic rates," O'Brien said.

The new rates for surface mail letters to Canada and Mexico are six cents an ounce. Cards are five cents each. Air mail rates are 10 cents an ounce and air mail cards are eight cents each, said O'Brien.

The rate for third-class mail to Canada and Mexico was raised from four to six cents for the first two ounces. The old rate of two cents for each ounce over two ounces on third-class mail will continue to apply, he said.

The weight limit on first class and air mail to Canada is 60 pounds. First class and air mail going to Mexico are limited to 40 pounds, 6 ounces, said O'Brien.

Powell Office Now Under Ethics Code

A code of conduct for employees of the Secretary of State's office, drawn up in accordance with the Illinois Governmental Ethics Act became effective Jan. 1, according to Secretary of State Paul Powell.

Provisions of the code apply to all employees and non-elected officials of, and all persons rendering personal service under contract to the secretary of state, Powell said. Violations may result in suspension for up to 60 days, dismissal or discharge, with the added provision that three suspensions will be cause for dismissal or discharge.

The code spells out areas where conflicts of interest may exist. Among its principal provisions are the prohibition of outside employment in conflict with the office or any undisclosed outside employment, acceptance of gifts or gratuities intended to influence the employee's performance of his duties and holding an interest in any enterprise doing business with the state.

Addition Ahead Of Schedule

Brentwood School's addition is "ahead of schedule," says architect Fred Johnson. A progress report says that all storm and sanitary underground work has been completed. All footings and foundation walls, except a 20-foot section of the west wall, have been poured. Brentwood's exterior walls have been back filled, and the succesor is back filling interior. The laminated wood beams are to be delivered in a week. If the cold weather continues, the contractor may put up a temporary enclosure to expedite erection of masonry walls.

OTHER DIST. 29 building projects call for the addition to Salt Creek School to be bid by the end of January.

Byrd School's addition, to open in September, 1968, is being planned along with the addition to Mount Prospect John Jay School. Both of these buildings should be ready for bidding by the end of February. However, construction on Jay School is not scheduled for completion until January, 1969.

Dialogue

"It looks like we're really reached the stimulus in contradiction now, with our merchandise society of form letters being passed back and forth between people who wouldn't recognize each other on the street."

"So, but you received one of these correspondence forms from me telling you to pay up on a bill you paid long ago."

"Not this time. That's happened, too. This one is a reply that I received from an auto-supply company regarding a letter I wrote about the wrong item they sent to me. Here's another of the mimeographed letter said."

"Dear Customer:

The merchandise about which you wrote has been returned to us for inspection. If you have not already done so, please return your original order papers carrying the purchase of this merchandise with a detailed explanation for your dissatisfaction. Please also, return this letter with your merchandise.

"All merchandise must be returned complete, with all parts and accessories. ORIGINAL CARTON. Ship merchandise provided by the most economical method. Insure all parcel post orders."

"For additional instructions on how to return merchandise, please see your most recent catalog."

"Your return will be inspected, and if found to be unsound, and complete, we will immediately adjust. However, if found to be used, altered or painted and neither defective or faulty, and we have shipped as ordered, we will be obliged to return the merchandise to you at your expense."

"Thank you for writing."

"Very truly yours,"

"With that doesn't sound too bad. After all, they don't want to take back what someone has used."

"Not. What I wanted was a letter explaining that what I received was for a different car than mine and I was therefore entitled to a refund."

"You say haven't it, should or should it not be so defective or faulty?"

"I'm afraid I don't understand them. How can the letter be contradictory?"

"Well, it shows on the face of the letter that it is dealing with the automatic, depunctuated, rubber stamp, form letter. I couldn't figure it out. I don't know what I ordered, and I don't know they can't give me the used or not. What I ordered was a handbook and manual for my car."

There are a number of things which can and should be done during the racing season, day or night, to make the inconvenience to families living close to the Arlington Park.

As a benefit of the public discussion of these matters there will be solutions to most of these problems. Some of the problems will be eliminated immediately. Others will be solved over a period of time. Some cannot be entirely eliminated but can be reduced in severity. While Arlington Park needs to take the lead in solving these problems, many will require cooperation of the village of Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, the county and the state.

Fortunately, the problem areas are limited. The entire north side of Arlington Park is bordered by the railroad and Northwest Highway. The west side of the Arlington Park property is far removed from the race track and there is no problem. The south side is not a major problem because the wide Euclid Avenue forms a barrier.

The real pinch point is the race track property. The west side of the race track property is far removed from the race track and there is no problem. The south side is not a major problem because the wide Euclid Avenue forms a barrier.

TRAFFIC is the worst problem on Wilke Rd. Regardless of how Wilke, with its described is a 2-lane highway whose normal traffic load must be described as "heavy" even before the race track demands are considered. In addition to all the other traffic, the race track is the main artery from the village of Arlington Heights to the Northwest Community Hospital.

On the side of racing the families on Wilke Rd. have to plan on the road being tied up two hours before the racing program and two hours after. The tie-up is to complete during these four hours that Wilke Rd. is unavailable to the people living there.

This road needs to be converted into a 4-lane highway at minimum and a 4-lane with center divider would be even better. This would involve a major expenditure and is one that will require state and federal cooperation and funds to solve.

AT BEST THE solution will require years. There needs to be a lot of getting this done. It probably can't be done in less than three years. The problem extends several blocks beyond Wilke. The problem is one that Arlington Park management can control.

For families living up to six or eight blocks directly east and north of the Arlington machine has been a major problem. Arlington Park management has already announced its intention to eliminate this cause of tension. Changing machines is being modified to eliminate the problem.

IF THIS IS NOT effective, the past will return the past with the past. It is not a serious problem. It is not a serious problem. It is not a serious problem.

those who have made a thorough study of the matter have found that a child's character is formed before he reaches the age of 6.

Your preschool toddler is very perceptive and he learns more from the example you set than from any preaching or admonition you may give him. Children, starting when he is 4 or 5, are an excellent part of any child's training. They are always second in importance to the example you set him.

The value of a child in his teaching of responsibility and good habits of work. When, in the performance of his chores, your child does a poorer job than you would have done, year must be patient and show your appreciation of how well he has succeeded for you on young.

With praise and encouragement, results will improve and you will have given him some of the accomplishment an enormous boost.

When a child does a task that he knows is a necessary part of the family's daily life, he is helping to support the family. This is important because a child who helps to support the family is a child who is learning to be a responsible member of the family.

When he wants to try a task that is beyond his capabilities, stand by and observe but don't criticize or ridicule his failure. Just tell him that as his skills increase, he can accomplish this and other things that are even more difficult.

You must train your child not only to be an adult, but to be a responsible member of the family. You must train your child to be a man or a woman by assigning him tasks appropriate to his sex as

Today's Furniture

Best of Past Excitement Of Tomorrow

A look at history through furniture was provided by means of miniature room displays by Kneibler Mfg. Co., at the American Furniture Mart.

Kneibler is celebrating its 75th year of making furniture for four generations. Today's latest in furniture design is shown in the 1967 year-end event in 1993 when Kneibler began making furniture and reflects a totally different attitude toward environment and enjoyment of life.

With the tightly laced corset and stiff collar in 1893 comfort in furniture wasn't too important, who could resist? Furniture and the fussy gown of ladies of fashion were both to be admired, but not expected to be comfortable.

BY 1918 Queen Victoria was dead, and women were beginning their attempts at self-expression. One magazine of the era suggested that a woman need not wear a corset while swimming-out an invasion to wild abandon, but certainly a big step toward comfort.

During this transitional period women began to relax along with women's fashions. The "living room" came into the picture, doing away with the idea that the front room was just for guests. Kneibler's "mission modern" style of furniture looks stiff and cold today, but it was this simplicity of form and lack of decoration that made it welcome. Children couldn't hurt the rugged fabric and corings, and details were replaced with simple lines so the housewife could free herself for other activities.

With the 20's and 30's came the right to vote, the prohibition and finally the flapper era. Skirt wear was dropped and a soft feminine look prevailed in fashion. Arm of sofa and chairs were upholstered and plush cushions provided the comfort everyone sought.

AS THE stock market crash of the 30's made people painfully aware that money didn't grow on trees, there was a marked tendency to square value carefully. Price became a paramount factor and people sought stability. The term "overpriced" was aptly applied, and if people were looking for challenge they found them in the upholstered furniture of the day.

By 1940 war time prosperity was upon the nation and ration stamps guided purchases more than money. Regional tastes began developing and California exerted its care-free influence on the rest of the country. Paint and ranch homes became the way of life.

When Eleanor Roosevelt said publicly that the never air was cropped and a soft feminine look prevailed in fashion. Arm of sofa and chairs were upholstered and plush cushions provided the comfort everyone sought.

PEOPLE BEGAN accepting lighter, closer lines of contemporary design. They discovered that slimmer, well-built furniture could withstand a beating, and still remain attractive. It wasn't until the 1960's that people had the affluence, the confidence and the know-how to bring individuality to the home.

Mobility has made this generation's women demand easy-care living, and technology has made it possible through such things as stain-resistant fabrics and indestructible plastics. She has the confidence to wear a mini and to combine colors which would make her Victorian great-grandmother match the smiling lady.

Today's generation is thriving with the best of the past and the excitement of tomorrow.

The Victorian Year . . . In 1893 Kneibler produced his first furniture which featured a "tuffed Turkish lounge" as the most popular item in a typical room such as this one.

Therapeutic Modern "Mission" . . . a typical room in about 1914 featuring the frills and formality of the Victorian.

THE Turbulent Twenties . . . shows a typical living room atmosphere and the luxury of central heating, artificial fireplace in the 20's containing upholstered sofas, covered chairs and the first of the telephone.

Today's colorful young lively collection by Kneibler Mfg. Co. will be at home anywhere - in a family room, vacation home or an apartment. Flexible wall plans have brightly painted modernism and modernism. As an assistant representative, Dr. McManis' duties include the administration of the district curriculum.

Mr. Haskell is chairman of the Illinois Education Association Chicago Area Commission.

Teacher participation in politics will be discussed by Robert Haskell, principal of Elk Grove High School, at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan.

Dr. McManis has been with the district since 1949, first as a mathematics instructor and then chairman of the mathematics department. He served as instructional coordinator in the central office.

Dr. McManis will discuss population mobility, competing values, suburban living, structure, financial support and the interrelationship of various groups that are connected with the school.

Raising 8 Children Is Easy

BY MARILYN HELLERS

WOMAN'S EDITOR

When you're talking with Margery Frisbie you get the impression that raising the children is easy. Margery and her husband Richard, who have lived in Arlington Heights for 14 years, are the parents of 16 children, 8 sons and 8 daughters.

Mr. Frisbie's advice for a large family is to "relax, or you'll drive yourself crazy, and you have to be organized," she added. "We try to keep our household going in a manner organized so that everyone can find their way and so that an individual can have the freedom of not always being to do what he or she is supposed to do."

Marriage inside Out is part of WTTW Channel 11's 11:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 11 on WTTW's Channel 11. The Frisbie co-authors of "The Do-It-Yourself-Parent," published in 1963, will be guests of Father Wroblek on Channel 11's program, Marriage Inside Out. Still photographs of the children will be shown while taped voices of the youngsters are heard telling what values they have learned as members of a large family.

WE ASKED Mrs. Frisbie how the parents of eight children found time to write a book.

"We had been editors of a newsletter for several years and wrote at night when the kids were in bed so when the children were little we just continued writing when they were in bed. 'Gathering material was easy. We organized our lives around children doing things with them during the day so reading to them at night. Our theme of the book is that parents are the primary educators of their children and can't expect the schools to do it," she added.

"We like to think of our book as quietly historic and when we wrote it we had five pre-schoolers. As we said in the book, 'We live in the only college with a mortgage.' NOW THAT the pre-schoolers are teenagers Mrs. Frisbie doesn't do much writing, but does review children's books for the National Catholic Reporter.

Frisbie is a free lance writer and author of a new business book, 'Who's the Boss? Father-Murphy's Chronicle' soon to be released by Doubleday. He is also a member of the Arlington Heights library board.

WHAT'S it like having four sons in the family? We asked Mrs. Frisbie.

Next Monday, is the deadline for members of the Youth Fellowship of South Baptist Church of Mount Prospect to sign up for the year to the Baptist World Youth Conference being held this summer in Bern, Switzerland.

According to Paul Rawley, senior assistant, the group is to depart from O'Hare Jan. 14 on the 21-day tour of five European countries.

International travel regulations require that at least 15 persons must register for reduced air fare. Should the number be less than 15 those wishing to attend the conference will have the opportunity of joining one of several tour teams being organized by Illinois Baptist Convention.

"I think too many parents are afraid of the word teenager. They hear so much about teens they become afraid. Actually we cope with their problems in the same way we always did and we really enjoy our team. Parents don't let their children become strangers," she said.

At Arlington Theatre, ThursdayString Quartet in Concert Here

The Arlington Heights Community Concert Assn. will present The American String Quartet in a concert for members of the 1957-58 season at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 11 in the Arlington Theatre.

The American String Quartet is known internationally as "one of the finest string ensembles in the United States." Originally the group was the NBC String Quartet. All four artists are former members of the famous NBC Symphony and the New York Philharmonic, both of which were conducted by Arturo Toscanini.

A preview of concerts likely to be available for the 1968-

69 season was discussed at a recent board meeting of the Arlington Heights Association. Concert Association, a division of Columbia Artists Management, met with the group.

A MEMBERSHIP drive March 18-23 will be preceded by a "kick-off" dinner. Mrs. Rudy Kasper is chairman of the dinner. The concert series, named by Mrs. Michael Swanson. Anyone wishing to take part in the membership drive may call Mrs. Harry Jenkins Cl 9-0766. For a given number of membership sold, a worker may earn complimentary membership for his or her family or friends.

OFFICERS of The Arlington Heights Community Concert Assn. include: Thomas O. Groll, president; Mrs. Harry Jenkins, 1st vice president; Mrs. Edward R. Vogney, 2d vice president; Mrs. Richard S. Dunlop, 3d vice president; Mrs. Michael Swanson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Arthur H. Franzen, treasurer; Mrs. Donald L. Bower, publicity chairman; Howard McElhose, artist screening chairman;

Mrs. Clayton Sauer, concert chairman.

The Board of Directors will be: Mrs. Gail Bock, Jr., George F. Buchan, E. Marvle Buchler, Mrs. Thomas O. Groll, John B. Guilfoyle, Ruth F. Kasper, Mrs. Charles Opala, Mrs. Frank Palmer, Clayton Sauer, Mrs. Harold A. Venzel, Boyd White, Mrs. Larry Zonika.

The nominating committee includes Harry O. Swenson, Mrs. Oliver E. Auer, Mrs. Lawrence W. Zonika, Boyd White, Clayton Sauer.

Voyage Into Spring

"Voyage Into Spring" is the theme of the Jan. 26 dinner-fashion show sponsored by the St. Alphonsus Catholic Church Women's Guild in Prospect Heights.

The 7 p.m. dinner, preceded by a cocktail hour, will be held at the Old Orchard Country Club and will feature the latest and spring fashions of the Cynthia Shoppe of Des Plaines.

MRS. HENRY Valley is in charge of the models. Mrs.

Michael McDonald is captain of the voyage with first mate, Mrs. Raymond Smith co-chairman. Passing may be obtained from ticket chairman Mrs. Russell Barry. Other ship-shape chairmen include Mrs. William John, publicity; Mrs. Frances Simons, decorations; and Mrs. Myron Horvath and Mrs. Charles Pavens, raffle chairmen.

Can you spare 10 days to learn another language?

We call this plan Fast Immersion, and it goes something like this:

For 10 days you'll be in the only student working with a team of teachers.

They'll start right in speaking to you in the language you're learning.

And you'll start right in not understanding a word they're saying.

But just from sheer exposure, you'll soon be uttering a few foreign words.

Then you'll progress to whole sentences.

And finally, you'll be carrying on entire conversations and speaking and thinking the language as if you'd known it your whole life.

Except you won't have spent your whole life learning it.

Thomson and Jeff, 72-22. Arlington's underdog swimmer was better showing, winning four first, but was defeated anyway.

THOMSON won the varsity 400-yard freestyle in 4:40 and took the 200-yard freestyle in 1:04.5. Arlington's only swims were in the 100-yard freestyle and the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard freestyle in the individual medley.

ERICK Lindblad, Maine East, and Greg Duff, all took team relays with Tom Rowe and Randy Logsdon to win the medley relays.

Lindblad won the 100-yard backstroke in 1:09.9, Wahl took the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:22.1, and Duff earned the 400-yard freestyle first in 5:12.9. The medley relay seen covered the 200 yards to win in 2:03.2.

The Card underdog swimmer, now 1-5, had seconds from Duff in the 200-yard freestyle, Tom Rowe in the 100-yard freestyle, and Jeff Kirby in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Loofel at 180 and Jim Novak, heavyweight.

But the Knights could manage just one second place and three thirds.

The runner-up finish came after the Knights had disposed of Mid-Suburban League rival Elk Grove 35-11 on Friday.

Knights, which made up for its lack of firsts with an abundance of seconds and thirds, totaled 49 points to the Eagles' 12.

Knights' first was taken with firsts by Terry Holtschaker at 177, Terry Richardson at 165, Maurice

A Luau to Lift Your Spirits

BY MARILYN HELLERS
Women's Editor

Sub-zero temperatures get you down? Would you like to escape to a warm sunny island like Hawaii? Who wouldn't? If this is out of the question, one answer is to create your own... have a Hawaiian "luau" party.

Have the guests come in bright colored aloha shirts and greet them at the door with leis. Transform your family room or basement into "Hawaii" with fish nets, shells, paper flowers and tropical plants. Have Hawaiian music playing and serve a luau of Hawaiian food and tropical drinks. You could serve a succulent pig if you have an oven large enough to accommodate it, but pig recipes include a substitute for this item.

For appetizers we include Butterfly Shrimp, Aloha Nui Loak (Butterfly shrimp prepared with much butter), Cheese "White" Drumsticks, Fingerlike spaghetti and Kaniaki... all can be heated over a Pineapple Volcano. Followed out pineapple with a lot of extra hot butter.

For the main course we serve Grilled Ham Leilani with Kani (Korean Barbecued Steak).

The recipes are from the Hawaiian Room Institute and the "Hawaii Cookbook and Backyard Luau" by Elizabeth Aloha Tropico.

FRUITFUL VOLCANO
Cut off the top of the pineapple about 3 or 4 inches from its base. With a sharp knife, remove the fruit without cutting into the rind. Cut the fruit into bite-size chunks and chill. Place the can in the hollow pineapple and fill when you are ready to serve your home down.

The pineapple chunks may be dipped into a Hawaiian run-ginger sauce and garnished with a slice of pineapple shell. To make sauce:

Day by Day

It's Wednesday afternoon. It's later than it should be and as an end of daily routine writers, there's not a thing to write about except that this must become one of those moments to remember.

A favorite story of last year concerned a happening in Chicago. A man of distinction who has never even contemplated dastardly things in his life became very nice one day.

He had parked his car on the street in Chicago in a rather distant neighborhood. He has an appointment and he kept it and as he approached his parked car, he noticed that the car behind him had the hood of the engine raised.

TWO MEN SAT in the car and two were busy working on their engine. There was something about the quiet that sent out warning signals. He felt that they had been trying to peek the lock on his nice shiny new car. He seemed a wide path around their car and got into his own and made a quick escape.

He drove around the block and the car with the four men in it. The hood on the car had been closed and they were ready to leave.

As soon as he got the change, he looked at the trunk of his car and seen motion. There were the dog goggles and scratch marks. They had been trying to open the trunk.

WITH GREAT indignation, he drove to the central police station and reported what had happened. The man at the desk told him that they could not just go out and arrest the owner of the suspicious car without more proof. He told him that if he had that proof, he would have to swear out a warrant. Without proof there was nothing he could do.

He went home and related the story to a group of friends. One of them called someone he knew and they got the address of the owner of the car from the license number.

THEY PLOTTED the supreme revenge. What they wanted was to get the license number. They looked up the telephone number of the suspect car.

The next morning, very early, one of them called the number. A woman answered and the caller said, "You better tell your husband, John, to stay away from my wife or he's in deep trouble." He hung up. A few days later another of the group called with the same message. There were four calls in all. "That," said the man of distinction, "will keep John off the streets if anything will." The name of John is entirely fictitious.

THANK YOU The caller was Jo Good of Nelson Realty Company. "Would you," she asked, "let us talk to a celebrity?"

It seems that ever since the profile on Jo appeared in The Day, she has been hearing from old friends and acquaintances. Even the girl at the checkout counter in Walgreens asked me if I was the one that had been written about in The Day," she said. "I had stopped in to buy

APRICOT RAUCE BROWN

1/4 cup dried apricots
1 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup oil
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup baking powder
1/2 cup baking soda
1/2 cup salt

1 teaspoon butter
Cook the dried apricots in covered saucepan until soft, which usually takes about 20 minutes. When most of the water is absorbed, add the cooking liquid to an electric blender or food mill. Pour in ingredients and beat until smooth.

For months if properly refrigerated.

CHEESE "WHITE MEAT" DRUMSTICKS

2 pounds chicken wings
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cheese
1/2 cup salt

Chop off wing tips at the joint and discard. Cut wing at joint. Take first or larger section of chicken wing and with small sharp knife, scrape and push meat to end of bone so that it forms a mound of meat similar to that in a drumstick. Remove the smaller of the two bones from the middle section of the wing by first cutting it loose at both ends. Scrape and push meat to one end of the remaining section so that it resembles a drumstick. Do this to each wing.

Shape drumsticks the night before. Refrigerate. In the morning, make batter and deep fry "drumsticks." Reduce by placing them on an open baking sheet for 45 degrees for 5 minutes.

or for 5 minutes.

SPAREZINS

Have butcher crack spare ribs in half. Cook 3-4 pounds lean spare ribs in water with onion for half hour. Marinate in sauce: 1 tablespoon fresh ginger, minced or 1/4 lb.

gringer
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/2 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons olive oil
1/2 cup vinegar

Marinate for an hour. Place ribs on rack in pan lined with foil. Bake in moderate 325 degree oven for one hour. After 30 minutes, turn over and baste with remaining sauce. Remove ribs from oven and serve hot.

Flu Threatens Card-Knight Clash

Arlington and Prospect will renew their traditional rivalry this weekend at the head of a full Mid-Suburban League basketball schedule.

The Knights will drop in on the Cardinals Friday night in the other Mid-Suburban section. Grove and Wheeling at Palatine Junior varsity preliminary will begin at 7 p.m.

Marion Catholic will be at St. Victor for a Chicago Prep League game on the same night. The two-epoch will get started at 6:30 p.m.

ARLINGTON WILL visit Elk Grove on Saturday while Palatine visits Prospect. Fremd will be at Wheeling and Forest View at Conant.

Neither The Cards nor the Knights will be at full strength for their first meeting of the season. R.J. Collins, sidelined last week by the flu, will start, as will Chris Butenbuck who also missed last weekend's action. But Dean Schmeizer has missed practice part of this week and his status is a question.

"We're just hoping that Collins and Butenbuck will be three-quarters back in shape," said Arlington Coach Bill Blythe. "If some of the others don't get sick, we'll be all right."

The Cards still lack the full-time services of center John Thorsen, whose nose was broken two weeks ago. The 6-3 junior saw some playing time against Fremd last week, but had to play with a nose guard. Mark Liddell again will open in his place.

OTHER STARTERS will be guard Jim Baumgartner and forward Dave McCaffrey. The other center spot will go to either Doug Somers or Keith Callender.

Prospect will be without guard center John Giese, at 6-6 the tallest player on either team.

According to Coach Dick Kienemann, Giese had been losing weight and was ordered off the basketball court for a month to that he could regain weight and observation. Giese has averaged 3.6 points and 3.3 rebounds per game.

Kienemann still hasn't set a starting lineup for the Arlington game. Fremd's lineup will start at one guard and the forward positions are set with Jim Giese and Butch Leonard. At the center will be either Dave Somers or Mike Anderson. At center will be George Timmons or Ed Hankal.

Forest View has no health problems for its two games, but a healthy enough to sit out alternating two players at center.

Coch Kim Arneson said that he would alternate Doug Dahlke and Mike Messer at the pivot since he was getting double-figure scoring out of the combination.

IN THREE Mid-Suburban League games, they have combined for an average of 12.6 points. Overall, they have averaged 13.7.

Wheeling has pinned one and lost one in the last week. Don Wright, a junior guard who came up from the JV's to contribute a 10.6 average.

guard with Jack Butenbuck. The center again will be Carl Frick, who has been scoring at a 17.3 point and grabbing 11.1 rebounds.

Two Elk Grove starters may not be ready to go this weekend. For Kalis, forward, and Tom Pomey, guard, have been scrimmaging with the 3s. Although they returned to practice yesterday, Coach Bob Ken does not know whether they will start.

"WE'LL HAVE to wait and see," he said. "We probably won't know our starting lineup until just before game time."

If Kalis isn't ready, Bob Arneson will start in his place. Arneson came off the bench last Friday against Prospect to score 15 points in slightly more than 15 minutes of playing time. The 6-1 forward, who Ken calls "our best shooter when he's hot," was hitting away on six of seven shots from the floor.

The back-up man for Pomey is Frank Schuler. Pomey is the team's leading scorer, sporting a 12.3 average over 10 games. Schuler, who started the Cardinals' first game, scored 12 points, averaging five in last week. Don Ketting and Bill Yeager, forwards; Mark Pompien, center; Terry Cullen and Jack Brewley, guards.

"That will probably do a lot more substituting this time," he added, pointing to Greg Doyle, Dave Erfor and Mike Hainstad as the leading candidates.

"We'll be seeing a lot more of all three of them," he said.

Marsha Kaipus Helps Set 400 Freestyle Relay Mark

Marsha Kaipus of Arlington Heights swam on the 400-meter freestyle relay team that set a new American record for the event Sunday.

A member of the Lake Forest Swim Club, she helped set a new record of 4:21.2 at the Land O'Lake Senior Girls Swim Meet in Melrose Park. The girls' performance eclipsed the four-year-old mark of 4:21.6 established by the Rivers Club of Indiana.

IN INDIVIDUAL events at the Land O'Lake meet, Marsha Kaipus took second place in the 200-meter freestyle with a 2:22, third in the 400-meter freestyle with a 5:06, and fifth in the 100-meter freestyle with a 1:05. She swam on the Lake Forest 400-meter "B" Medley Relay

Life-Long Education Seen for the Future

"The educational process in our schools of the future will be from 'womb to tomb' and continue on until death."

"The world will become the classroom. Transportation advances will make it not only possible but common practice for students studying geography to travel to other countries on field trips."

This was the description of the school of the future presented to administrators and teachers of the Arlington Heights Public Schools of District 25 last week by Dr. Eugene Todd of the University of Florida and one of the outstanding young educators of the South. Introduced by Supr. R. E. Clabough, Todd spoke at Thomas Junior High School.

THE SCHOOLS are already under a mounting pressure, Todd told Drs. 25 teachers. Schools must now meet the needs of all the children. Our schools are no longer social islands in the community but are under continuous and steadily increasing pressure to improve and expand their services.

The speaker listed five pressures pushing the schools toward their future. These pressures in the order given are as follows:

Increased Mobility — People are moving freely from place to place, from town to town and from state to state. They expect to improve their situation when they move and one of the things which they expect to move to a better system.

Tax Payer Interest — Taxpayers have a major interest in improving their schools. They will be demanding to know in greater detail how their money is being spent.

Federal Aid — The federal and state governments will increasingly support education. They will insist upon integration, an expansion of school services. Teachers will become more involved in the planning of these services.

New Ideas — Planning will be made easier and at the same time more difficult by the educational theories which will bombard schools with new programs and projects.

Collective Bargaining — Collective bargaining is becoming an inherent part of school operation, especially in larger urban areas. Collective bargaining is causing education to rethink the traditional administrative process.

Schools are rapidly becoming unbalanced. Todd explained. As a result of the growth explosion, schools are becoming too bureaucratic to allow for real creativity in the classroom. Both administrators and teachers are facing more complex problems.

The pressure on them will continue. They will affect the future of our schools.

SCHOOLS MUST decentralize as they progress into the future. There will be many evidences of decentralization. Dr. Todd listed three results that will be most common and easily detected.

(1) The learning process will become highly individualized.

(2) Students themselves will share in the planning of the learning process.

(3) Curriculum design will move more and more be the result of team planning.

"Schools of the future will place greater emphasis on inquiry and experimentation," Todd said. "Students will be allowed to question the validity of their learning process. They will be encouraged to develop critical, as well as positive, thinking in these matters."

Todd, who is a leader in the School of Education at the University of Florida, concluded.

Honor Employees — Twelve employees of the Northwest hospital were honored as an annual luncheon to recognize personnel who have completed five years of service to the hospital.

They include Dorothy Gallier, R.N.; Koyoko Sappahaw, N.A.; Gladys Gross, R.N.; Eberleffian Guerra; Leone Hoffman, R.N.; Lillian Johnson, R.N.; Janet Kipka; Marjorie Lemmell, R.N.; Mary Ramsey, R.N.; Wilma Reed; Anna Mae Whalen; and Alberta Wood.

cluded by predicting that outstanding teachers in the future will make five important commitments to the school and communities they serve.

THESE commitments will be:

The teacher will work with the individual student.

The teacher will be "all seeing." He or she will be able to see through the eyes of the students, see what the students want and see what are his values.

The teacher will provide for continuous involvement in the educational process.

The teacher will not place his own system of values on the student's creativity, recognizing that the bright students learn to conform to teacher values.

The teacher must become less self-centered.

The educational process in the future will be from "womb to tomb," the learning process will be individualized and tax payers will demand to see where and how their money is spent on education. Dr. Eugene Todd of the University of Florida said Arlington Heights teachers from left, Mrs. Katherine McCherry, principal of the Kensington School, instrumental in getting Todd to speak here this week. Dr. Eugene Todd of the School of Education, University of Florida and Supr. R. E. Clabough who introduced the speaker to the teachers of 25.

If you're looking for some good entertainment, this Friday or Saturday, you shouldn't miss the musical comedy "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" at the Wheeling High School Theatre.

We caught the opening night performance last Friday and had a most enjoyable time watching this satire of American business life. "How to Succeed" is being presented by the Best Off Broadway Players, and cost of more than 400 amateur actors, singers, dancers and orchestra members apparently are having a good time in the process.

IF YOU SAW the movie version of "How to Succeed," you'll go to see the play. It's ing "No one can top that."

And you may think that the part of J. B. Biggley, president of World Wide Widget Co., who was played by Rudy Valle, who did just that in the movie and the original Broadway show.

But Arlington Heights resident Al Bauman, who portrays Biggley in the BOB Players' presentation, makes you forget that someone else had the part before. And the BOB cast does a superb job of outdoing the movie version.

PETER PETER of Mount Prospect, a real-life up-and-comer, playing businessman who plays J. Pierrepont Fish, an up-and-comer young businessman, is just right for the part.

Rosemary, the starry-eyed secretary who helps boost Fish to the top of World Wide Widget Co., is aptly portrayed by Patricia Kelly of Des Plaines.

The part of the ex-spectator girl, Hedy LaRue, a protégé of Biggley's who becomes a WWW Co. secretary, is adequately filled by Carol Vastner of Hoffman Estates.

THE ENTIRE cast should be mentioned, but of course there for just isn't enough room to do that. All in all, they do a better than average job.

The BOB Players presented "How to Succeed" last Friday and Saturday and today performances again this Friday and Saturday. Tickets are $2.00 in advance, $3.00 at the door.

The first night problem were't nearly as noticeable, at any rate, as those of a new musical that opened in Washington recently in a benefit preview before members of Congress and the Presidential Cabinet.

AMONG other flaccid was a scene where the star, Marina Malt, who plays "Hedy LaRue" is the play of the same name, but her wig. Then she was to make a quick costume change on a darkened stage, but the lights went up after she got the first costume off and before she got the second one on.

This won't happen in "How to Succeed," but you can hear plenty of things to laugh about this Friday or Saturday at 8:30 p.m.—Don't miss it.

For ticket information, contact Lana F. Kalkbush at 537-0046.

It's No Circus Making Nice Ice for Skate Rinks

One of the paradoxes of the ice-making season, said Thomas Cooper, superintendent of Mount Prospect, is that the weather which produces the best ice conditions is so cold it discourages all but the hardest skaters.

The Mount Prospect Park District has ice-making plants in its parks—Lincoln, Emerson, High Ridge Knolls, Devonshire, Madison and at the Community Center.

Cooper said it takes about a week of excellent ice-making weather to get the rinks in operation.

The ice-making rink is long and uncomfortable, said Cooper, and his opinion was confirmed by the park board president, Robert Jackson, who went out for a first-hand look at the process last week.

"WE'VE HEARD about the problems of making and maintaining ice rinks for years at our board meetings and I was curious about what was involved for the men who do the work, so I went out to one of our parks on a 'weekend afternoon,' he said.

Before flooding a rink, the gram is cut short. Then many very thin layers of ice, as thin as 1/32 of an inch, are laid on top of each other.

If too much water is used at first, the ground will become wet and the ice will break and become cracked too easily.

TO MAINTAIN the rink, about two layers are laid on the rink every night when the weather is cold enough, to compensate for the ice worn off by skaters.

Fire hoses are used to flood the rink.

The hoses, said Jackson, are hard to hold and invariably become wet and icy. When the hoses are used, the ice makes footing insecure as well as cold. When four men are working at a park, two will remain in the warming house, while the others put down a layer of water. Then the men will switch so no one has to remain outside too long.

JACKSON PERFORMED his ice-making stint when the temperature was about 3 below zero. He said he felt in a lot of order, he said.

Sometimes these men will flood the rinks from 8 or 9 in the evening until early in the morning in near zero temperatures or below.

It's a good thing, said the residents realize what a difficult and uncomfortable job it is. I give these regular park maintenance men and the park district men who help them a lot of credit, he said.

Post Office Offers Special Forwarding Address Service

A new service makes it possible for postal customers to get the new address for first-class mail that is forwarded.

Opportunity is offered for first-class mail to be forwarded at no extra charge when the address has left a forwarding address, but in the past there has been a provision for supplying the new address.

Under the new service, the post office will, when requested, supply the sender the correct address for a 15-cent fee.

TO GET the new service, O'Brien said, senders of first-class mail must write "address correction requested" below the return address. Then, if the piece of mail is forwarded, a post office form showing the new address will be delivered to the sender and the fee will be collected.

IN ACCORDANCE with the provisions of the new postal rate law, the charge for address correction on all classes of mail will be 15 cents.

O'Brien also reported that a new return service is now available on third-class mail. This will make it possible for third-class mail to find out when their mail is unwanted normally, as well as those third-class mailers who want the job.

First-class letters are now 6 cents as opposed to mail letters 10 cents (one ounce); post cards 5 cents each and air-mail post cards 8 cents each.

In addition to the rate changes, some significant service changes became effective Jan. 8. They include the airtail service for parcels up to 30 pounds (not exceeding 60 inches in length) and the combined mail which can be sent to American military personnel overseas at 50 per cent, plus the normal postage and surface rate.

First-class privileges for the blind are being offered to blind persons by first mailing of letters by mail with physical impairments who are unable to write, as well as those who are blind.

THE NEW Harper College Choir will debut Sunday at the stage band, composed of selected members from the township, combined with the Mount Prospect High School band under the direction of Makas.

RACHEL FINCH, Harper Township, is organist and pianist in the choir. The choir, which will be directed by Edward Kallbach, Harper Township.

An Indoor Garden Of Useful Herbs

BY RICHARD DELANO
COOK COUNTY ASSOCIATE
EXTENSION ADVISER,
HORTICULTURE

How would you like to do some different and unusual gardening this winter. I'm suggesting a window-sill herb garden. Salads, soups, stews and sauces can all be seasoned with herbs grown on your own window sill. There they'll provide eye appeal and eventually taste appeal.

For now, let's start with parsley, chives and sweet marjoram for mild or savory herbs and rosemary, sage and thyme as the strong or pungent types.

Parsley, according to my wife, makes garnishes for salads, soups, potatoes, stews and meats. Chives are good in soups, salads and potato chip dips. In fact I've consumed so much of this preparation that I've about lost the battle of the bulge.

Real or No

"Something old, something new," is good advice when your wife gets that "interior decorating" look in her eye. Remind her that if it's a real antique she wants to get for the home, well and good. But an antique that needs complete reconditioning and even then may not stay the course may often be better supplanted with an entirely new item.

Chives add a very delicate onion-like flavor.

Rosemary, is good in either sprig or leaf form. You can recognize it by its dark, green foliage and in April by its small blue flowers. It's used for meat, sauces and soups.

A prime flavor in turkey stuffings is sage. And for something with a real earthy appeal try it dried, in the whole, or crushed dried leaf, on pork chops. Ummmh! Thyme, the last member of the window-sill garden also has dark green leaves and is good in soups, omelets and gravy.

NOW, HOW TO GROW THYME on the window sill. First of all let's get this project started from seeds before the end of January. Then you can set them out in summer and pot them up again in the fall for use indoors during next winter. You can see it is a long project. But it's a rewarding project.

A good way to start seeds indoors is to fill a four-inch clay pot to within an inch of the top with a mixture of half peat moss and half garden soil. Perhaps the soil close to the South foundation wall of your home will be frost free and easy to dig under the snow. Add a half inch of vermiculite or sphagnum moss on top.

Seeds, which can be purchased from garden centers or mail order seed houses, should be sown just under the surface layer of vermiculite or sphagnum. Water with a fine mist until moisture runs out of the bottom of the pot.

As a final trick cover the pot with polyethylene plastic film. A vegetable bag will do very well. This will keep the soil moist until you can see the tiny seedling emerge. Then open or remove the bag so the seedlings will have plenty of air.

Be sure to be patient, as herbs are slow starters. Just remember they like plenty of light and heat but not too much moisture.

COMPACT NEW AUTOMATIC console humidifier by West Bend will humidify more than 2,500 square feet of living area. Unit features solid state control and efficient "water wheel" motorizing action. It comes with a handy "summer cover" in matching walnut-grain vinyl-covered steel.

New College Will Benefit Homeowners

Residents of Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, and adjacent communities can expect a variety of benefits from the new William Rainey Harper Community College, according to the Hoffman Rosner Corp., a major builder in the area.

"Property values can be expected to rise substantially, brought on by demand from families who want to live near the college so their children can be students there, and from faculty and administrative people moving here," reported Robert Rosner, president of the company.

The college, a two-year school, is now being built on 200 acres at Algonquin and Roselle Rds., approximately one mile from the High Point area of Hoffman Estates and the Churchill community in Schaumburg.

When completed in 1969, the school will have 3,200 students, 170 faculty members, and around 150 supporting personnel. By 1975, the school is expected to have 10,000 students and a combined faculty-supporting staff of 700 to 800 people.

At present the college is operating in temporary facilities in Elk Grove, where 1,800 students are attending classes.

DR. ROBERT E. LAHTI, president of the college, noted that already 70 faculty families with incomes of $10,000 or more have been added to the community.

He told Hoffman Rosner officials that 80 per cent of the faculty and supporting staff will be new families moving to the area; the balance will come from families already living there.

In terms of economic impact, the present faculty and staff accounts for a yearly payroll of $1,200,000; by 1969, this will rise to $2,100,000 as more people are added. Much of this money is being spent in communities adjacent to the college.

"One of the most significant economic factors will be the students themselves," Lahti said. "Many of them would have gone to college elsewhere; now they will stay in the community two years longer than otherwise. Others would never have gone at all; these will now receive valuable training and acquire permanent skills which they can use in the community."

The $30 million college complex will serve residents of Hoffman Estates, the Palatine, and Elk Grove, plus High School townships of Schaumburg, Wheeling, District 224 in Barrington.

REAL ESTATE CORNER By Robert L. Nelson President, Robert L. Nelson, Realtors METES AND BOUNDS

In the realty business, the terms "metes and bounds" are often used. These terms describe the area of property.

"What are 'metes and bounds'?" Metes and bounds are the oldest method of describing land. People used to speak of a property being so many acres wide, Metes are measured in feet, inches, and another old term, "perches." Perches are about 16 2/3 feet.

Bounds are artificial and natural boundaries. Examples are streets, roads, adjoining property and streams. Therefore, metes determine the quantity of land. Bounds confirm that quantity in certain fixed limits.

In rural areas, descriptions by monuments is common. For instance, a property might start "200 feet from the Revolutionary chestnut tree."

Often, streams are used for boundaries in the country. In this case, the boundary usually extends to the middle of the stream.

The Robert L. Nelson, Realtor office in Mount Prospect is now located at a new address and a new building. The new Nelson Mount Prospect office is at the Northwest corner of Golf Road and Route 83 (near State). A convenient location featuring plenty of parking and the most modern, functional Realtor office in the Northwest suburbs. We cordially invite you to inspect our new facilities.

Help Your Furnace To Peak Efficiency

Everybody would like to have more heat for less money. If your fuel bills seem exorbitantly high, it may be that you are heating the great outdoors and not your house, pushing your heating plant to heat certain areas while other places are overheated.

While you may not be an engineer capable of designing a home and heating plant for maximum efficiency, you certainly have enough common sense to spot problems and correct them.

There are, of course, the obvious ones. Doors and windows should not be leaking air, a matter that can be corrected with storm sash or weather strip. Repair putty around windows, caulking around window and door frames.

Chimneys are, however, that a little closer attention to the heating plant itself may squeeze out a little extra warmth with no extra effort.

IN A WARM-AIR system, efficiency is directly proportional to air distribution. Anything that interferes with the air distribution impairs the efficiency. Air would flow best with no filter at all—not a practical solution since the filter is there to trap dust and dirt. But once it has trapped dust and dirt it clogs down on air circulation. The clean filter you installed in the fall doesn't stay clean too long. Check and replace frequently. Otherwise warm air is stopped by the blocked filter and sent up the chimney instead.

Room registers gather dirt, too, and impede the flow of warm air. Vacuum them regularly; remove and clean inside at least once during the winter.

Blowers pick up and retain dirt. Fan blades are often covered with dust and lint which doesn't help them work efficiently. Reach in with vacuum or brush.

THE FAN CONTROL in a blower system is set to start up shortly after the burner goes on and to continue running after the burner goes off until all the warm air is gone. Although setting the control is a job for a serviceman, you can observe for yourself if there is trouble here. The fan should start when the furnace plenum is hot and should continue running until the plenum is cool to the touch.

Room thermostats are also best left to servicemen for adjusting, but you can make yours run better by keeping it free of dirt and dust.

Ductwork should not leak. If warm air is escaping from joints, you can detect it easily enough. Be sure to run your hand over the top of the duct work, too, to see if heat is escaping from the other side. Duct tape, adhesive-backed and aluminum-coated, is available at any hardware and is easy to apply.

THE DUCTS also have dampers, a movable plate inside the duct (controlled with a handle on the outside) which controls the flow of air. Close the damper and you can close off air to a register. You can increase the heat in one room by partially closing the dampers leading to adjacent rooms. Check rooms with a thermometer. They should not be more than two or three degrees of the thermostat setting. If they are, adjust dampers to equalize the heat.

What about lowering the thermostat setting at night? Consider this as a matter of comfort, not savings. A few degrees lower during the night will save you little. For an appreciable savings you would have to cut the temperature a good 10 degrees, which could make the house mighty uncomfortable.

Push-Button Snow-Melting A Back-Saver

If you're a homeowner who has installed an automatic snow melting system, you can look out of your picture window when the white stuff starts flying about, and chant, "Let it snow! Let it snow!"

If you haven't, then put this item high on the priority list for looking into in the coming year. Especially if your home is hydronically heated.

Instead of breaking your back over a snow shovel job, you can melt the messy blanket of snow away, either manually from indoors or with controls that start up automatically when the snow starts to fall.

Basically the automatic snow-melting system consists of piping embedded in your sidewalk or driveway, with hot water and an anti-freeze circulating in the pipe. The same boiler that heats your house can usually handle the system too, and will provide the hot water for the pipe. The boiler itself can be fired with any type of fuel, according to the most readily available in your community.

As a "fringe benefit" for having hydronic heating, this system really has tastes on it.

Seamless Flooring from Can

NEW YORK (UPI) -- There's something new underfoot.

It's polyurethane seamless flooring, first introduced five years ago, but now making giant strides in the resilient flooring industry, both for commercial and, increasingly, for residential installations.

The "floors from cans," as they are called, are expected to account for an estimated 200 to 300 million square feet of the 3½ billion square foot resilient flooring market this year, according to William Reutz, urethane product manager for Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis.

Cargill supplies the urethane chemical as a raw material to seamless flooring companies. The unique flooring is a liquid applied with a trowel, spray gun or roller.

REUTZ SAYS the material is tough but stylish. It's virtually child-proof, won't blister, and is not damaged by alcohol, detergents, chemicals, water, grease or other stains -- any of which can be removed with a damp cloth.

Chiefly though, Reutz feels, the attraction of the flooring is its versatility, limited only by the imagination. He says "there's almost no limit to the color combinations you can get."

"It has been used on kitchen, recreation room and garage floors, on baseboards, patios, shower stalls, walls, bar and counter tops and even sunken bathtubs," Reutz said. "Coins, sequins, maps, a coat of arms -- almost any flat object -- can be inlaid."

CARGILL'S recommended process there are many variations on the market. Reutz notes involves the application of a seal-coat of urethane -- a clear, fast-drying liquid with a tough finish -- followed by what the industry terms a "floodcoat" of the same product.

Before the thicker floodcoat has dried, colored plastic or metallic flakes are sprayed upon it. When this has dried, a second floodcoat is applied and more colored flakes spread to assure a solid and even distribution.

The floor then is sanded lightly, and is finished off with two or more additional coats of urethane, which protects everything beneath it against wear.

EACH LAYER of urethane requires from two to five hours to dry, depending upon humidity, temperature and air circulation. Residential jobs usually are completed in less than two days, Reutz said.

He said the great variety of colored flakes available permits any number of color combinations. Specific designs are created by placing masking tape over areas that will have different color than adjoining ones. Maps or other flat inlays can be laid down before finishing coats of urethane are added.

The finished floor, Reutz said, is glossy, free of dirt-collecting seams, never needs waxing and is skid-proof.

HE SAID COST of the seamless may range anywhere from 65 cents per square foot for large jobs to $1.50 per square foot for small ones. Original cost, he said, is offset by low maintenance expense.

One maintenance contractor for commercial jobs, he said, has estimated the upkeep cost of seamless at 20 cents a square foot per year, compared to 40 cents for quarry tile, 55 cents for linoleum and vinyl tile, and more than 60 cents for vinyl asbestos and asphalt tile.

In areas subject to intensive wear, Reutz said, when the glosscoat starts to show wear, the surface can be reglazed quickly and brought back to its original finish.

How Clear is the Title To That Home?

Are you sure you own your home?

On the surface, a silly question.

But any lawyer knows that many an unwary home buyer has never established clear title to a home, lives in it for years, then suddenly faces serious legal trouble.

If your land title is registered under the Torrens system, you may sleep at night without further problems to disturb your slumbers.

The Torrens system, approved by popular vote on June 5, 1897, was adopted in Cook County, with the registrar's office opening for business on March 1, 1899.

LACK OF A TORRENS title does not mean you lack a clear title, but having one furnishes many protective factors: from judgments against people with similar names, against fraudulent signatures, against adverse possession.

Buying a used car, a washing machine, a boat, and furniture are all fairly simple transactions compared to the purchase of a home.

Every piece of land has been owned previously by some other persons, - and it might astonish you to know how far back the trail leads. It's easily possible for errors to creep into deeds or other documents.

Just having the deed does not mean you have a clear title. It's astonishing to see what factors can cause real trouble, so many years later.

FIFTY YEARS ago a deed may have been signed improperly. Or a sign-man's signature was affixed, although he was divorced and his wife still retained her dower rights in the property. Or a mechanic's lien against the property for some item - a hot water heater or a kitchen sink was never satisfied, - making everything a fertile ground for legal bickering.

Best advice when buying a home: deal with a reputable, established real estate firm. It's in his interest as much in yours to make sure you, actually, do own your own home.

Functional Lamp Helps Dad Read With Intensity

Some new light on an old theme - the functional lamp. It's an item that's earned male approval.

The candlestick of yesterday was always kept in a centrally located spot in the home, ready to be carried about for instant use. We need only to look at paintings of the 17th and 18th centuries to see what a popular item it was for the scholar or man of the house reading a book or doing his accounts.

Closest thing to this today is the current small functional high-intensity lamp. The decorative and more elegant lamps to dear to the heart of the lady of the house can remain where the positions them, just so Dad can have his own high-intensity lamp.

Of course, it's an ideal lamp also for the teen-ager's study or the child's bedroom.

Second Tragedy in 3 Days

Two Pedestrians Killed on Highway

The auto which struck and killed two men at Euclid and Chester Thursday afternoon, was seen from Euclid after striking the two men, and came to rest on Chester. The driver, a 28-year-old woman, was charged with reckless homicide and driving too fast for conditions. (Photo by Dan Patai)

Special Assessment Considered for Kirchoff Farm Retention Basin

By Charles Mounstead

A special assessment on Hales Heights residents and the developer of the Kirchoff Farm apartment for the construction of a water retention basin may solve the area's drainage problem and a heated controversy.

Village engineers from Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights and representatives of developer Ben Peck were to meet this morning to estimate the cost of the assessment and to discuss the construction of the basin.

THE COST of an assessment is spread among those who are supposed to be benefited from the project according to the degree of benefit. Village administrators submitted a report of the bill to the residents of Hales Heights and officials of Mount Prospect protested against the proposed $400,000 assessment for the Kirchoff Farm Retention Basin. The plan called for the construction of the basin to be paid for by the residents of Hales Heights and the developer of the Kirchoff Farm apartment.

THE COMPLEX, a planned in Arlington Heights, south of Central Rd. and about 200 feet west of Euclid Rd. borders Mount Prospect's Hales Heights, a single family residential subdivision, on three sides.

The plan commission continued the project hearing on the proposed development on Jan. 17. Peck had said he was certain the drainage problem would be solved.

Frank Angeli, Peck's representative, said last night that the developer is willing to participate in a special assessment to build a retention basin that would keep water from flooding Hales Heights during heavy rainfall.

Hales Heights claimed they had water in their basements from 12 to 48 hours during the June 7 flood.

Engineers agree that when an area is built up the water run-off is three to five times as much as before the same piece of time.

Frank Krebs, Mount Prospect engineer, said the area's topography makes it prone to flooding.

The proposed apartments are one- and two-bedroom units and would run from $215 to $450 monthly, according to Peck.

A health club and a three-acre putting green will serve tenants of the apartments. But the land for these tennis courts planned for the south side of the development may be used for a retention basin.

On Jan. 15, Gerald D. Trevino, who has been charged with the building of the complex, said he was certain the drainage problem would be solved.

Residents have testified the ditch that would carry away storm water from the development contributed to the loss of the House Rd. culvert.

HOMES THERE also saw their drainage into the sewer. Property owners of the area.

"Anybody found to hide or assist the fugitives may be prosecuted for breaking the law," said Det. Jean Gravano.

Det. Gravano said the suspects, with their wives and children, are driving a 1960 Ford. The 4-door red coupe has a white top and bears a Chicago sticker which reads "I am not a fugitive."

Mount Prospect Mayor Daniel Congrove has called for a complete re-evaluation of state highway speed limits in order to reduce the recent rash of pedestrian fatalities on highways.

Congrove who appeared shocked by Thursday's double fatality on Euclid and the Jan. 8 fatal accident at Rand and Highland, said, "I think the state should make it, mandatory that speed limits through urban and congested areas would never exceed 35 miles an hour."

The state establishes its own limits, Congrove said, on surveys which check all the traffic on a given highway. Whenever the average speed of the autos on the highway happens to be, the speed limit which the state decides is reasonable for that route.

Congrove said he has tried twice to persuade the state department of highways to reduce speed limits without much success. "We made a lot of noise to the state about Foundry Rd. speed limits. Euclid is exactly the same thing."

The village limits at that section of Euclid where year's ago a tragedy occurred, extended halfway across the street. Euclid at Chester is half in the county and half in the village of Mount Prospect.

BEING in the village, Euclid was cited by Mount Prospect Police for failure to yield the right of way to a truck and driving too fast for conditions. He apparently was traveling 45 miles an hour in a 30 mile an hour zone, according to police.

On Thursday's tragedy however, Miss Moss was charged by County Police with reckless homicide and driving too fast for conditions. She apparently was driving 40 miles an hour in a 30 zone.

The bodies were taken to Holy Family Hospital, and later to De Plaines Funeral Home. The bodies were not to be released until the coroner's report is completed.

THIS IS at least the fourth pedestrian fatality in the area within a year. Last May a young girl was struck and killed by an auto on Willow St. Earlier last year a Day carrier hit his leg on Hill St. The accident Thursday and Jan. 8 occurred on identical types of highways, four-lane unlighted roads without sidewalks, and 50 mile-an-hour speed limits. The size of the two latest tragedies were about three-quarters of a mile from each other, and both occurred about 5 p.m.

Mr. DeBuck's father, the corner of a resort in Woodstock. Mr. Ippolito is survived by his wife, Irene, and two children.

Mr. DeBuck was the son of G. L. DeBuck, 322 Waukegan, who was struck and killed March 19, 1967. The Jan. 8 tragedy occurred when Mr. Francis tried to seek assistance from a service station.

The force of the impact threw the bodies 45 feet from the auto and the auto apparently lost control after the collision, spinning out onto Chester Rd.

265 Fine Ways To Lose a Defendant

A Chicago man who appeared in Mount Prospect District Court County 2nd Branch Circuit Court Thursday apparently fled with $265 in fine.

Jack Powers, clerk of the court, noticed the shortage at the end of the day. He recalled one man who was in court on a traffic violation, standing near his desk on at least two occasions during the day.

Beautification Council To Step up Campaign

The Arlington Heights Beautification Council has decided to step up its drive to publicize the need for money to "beautify" the village.

At its Monday meeting, the council voted unanimously to print 50,000 pamphlets to publicize in need for funds to accomplish its objectives. The pamphlets will be distributed through booklets, door-to-door and the Chamber of Commerce.

In addition, the council will seek to expand its membership to increase its ability to help make the village "an even more attractive place to live in," according to Mrs. Anthony Blancard, council public relations chairman.

ABC President Gilbert H. Krihn announced that he spoke to Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson about possibly designating the 1960 vehicle similar to promote village beautification, and that Hanson "was very much in accord with the suggestion."

The chairman of the ABC's finance committee, Edward Kagan, announced he is planning a fund-raising drive culminating in a tag day March 15.

"THE COUNCIL's first project, undertaken when the ABC first came into being early in 1947, is still continuing. It consists of renovating a three-mile stretch along the north side of the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks.

"We've found the railroad extremely co-operative," ABC member and president of the Arlington Heights Women's Club-Mrs. Byron Jones said. Mrs. Raymond Crouch, president of the Arlington Heights Junior Women's Club said she and her organization found the same to be true.

Educator Tells How Students Learn to Learn

By JAN BONE

"Blank and Blank are a part of the earth."

"My son John came home from school with a paper to fill out. He wrote down a lot of things, but I don't know what they are."

"That the teacher marked it wrong. She wanted him to put rocks and minerals."

"Where rocks are we playing by, anyway?"

"TELLING stories of his personal family experiences was Dr. J. Richard Suckman, speaker yesterday at the Ideal School Conference sponsored by the Training and Development Center, and held at Wheeling High School.

He was talking to more than 200 area educators about Inquiry Training—a program he's developed.

"Inquiry is something that starts at birth," Suckman said. "All through his preschool years, a child is learning to world—feeling, seeing, touching, finding out what it's all about."

"THEN, WHEN he gets to school, he finds out that they know the rules."

"The school is saying to him, 'We'll make the decisions about what happens next in your learning. You often they sacrifice the spirit of inquiry on the altar of order.'"

"What can parents do to keep a child curious about his world, to have a constant sense of wonder?"

"Be playful with ideas," Suckman said. "Don't always be lecturing your children. Don't always be telling them what is right, what is wrong, but in a flood—and being right."

"FATHERS don't always have to be right. If you don't know, say so."

"I think it's far better to have your children think they've stepped into to have them think you are dishonest."

Inquiry, Suckman told the teachers, is a way of looking at things. It's what people are. We need to release it. It can grow and develop, rather than squelch it.

"YOU NEED certain things to make it work. You need to have your children freedom from having your ideas questioned. You need to be open to what people who will let you express your ideas, and an environment which will be responsible to you."

"Any time a teacher says a child's idea is wrong, she's making a value judgment."

"She can challenge it. She can say that the child proposed doesn't match with his life. But if she says that the child is wrong, she's setting herself up to play cool."

HOW DID the teachers who heard Suckman react to his point? In a word, they watched him conduct two inquiry Training sessions: a morning one, using children from Dues 39A through 39H, and a by-visit one afternoon science session with students from the class of James Lewis, Wheeling High School teacher.

"One thing that I had reservations about before the conference was open-ended questions," said Mrs. Nancy Buehler, Dues 15 teacher, who'll be using Inquiry Training with sixth-graders at Carl Sandburg Junior High School in Rolling Meadows.

"I didn't want to leave the children with unanswered questions."

But Dr. Suckman explained that each child is a person in his own level of understanding. Each child grows in his own time from the SOME CANDID comments from other teachers were unusually frank.

"He's got to stand up there on the stage and not pressure the kids," said one teacher, watching Dr. Suckman deliberately not hurry on an interval of "blacks."

The "joke game" this Wheeling High School science student is holding is purely filled with snail's pace. When he opens his hand around either one of the balls, he'll find a small, round, white object.

He'll find a small, round, white object.

silence by the Holmes children.

"We're afraid of letting the kids be silent," said another teacher.

Some of the questions raised problems about fitting inquiry into an existing school program. "How do you evaluate a child after an inquiry session?" asked Wheeling High School teacher, David Miller. "After all, I have to give the child a grade."

"IF YOU believe the system is bad, fight it," said Suckman.

That's not a meaningful way to say that a child is a "B" thinker rather than an "A." That makes the child a quantity, rather than a quality.

"Teachers strike about salaries," Suckman said. "Why don't they strike on the quality of their work?"

CAN INQUIRY be used in the social studies?

"Sure," said Suckman. "You need to have your children go on the inquiry."

Horoscope

FOR SATURDAY

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)

Normal Saturday activities would be best, especially if you don't feel able to risk profits recently made.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)

Take advantage of the day to establish a new relationship on a social level. A good time for coming to terms with children.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar. 21)

Prospect for solidifying family relationships are excellent today - especially if you approach family members with absolute truth.

ARIES (Mar. 22 - Apr. 20)

A day for study and/or your plans are concerned. To put them into action at this time could be to fail in them.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)

Push efforts that signify for the family. Don't allow business worries to interfere with a day of rest and relaxation.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

Brighten your mental outlook in the company of young people. This is no time for going around feeling sorry for yourself.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

Activate social channels that have recently been closed to you. An excellent day for demonstrating your charm.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)

Good fortune is at hand for the Leo who has laid plans well and knows where to make his next move. Don't rush other people.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)

Get to those household chores you've been putting off. There's no time like the present for joint enterprises with the family.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)

All may not go as you would like it to today, but the star Libra will smile for you and lay better plans for the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 23)

Mental energy can well be spent on study leading to more knowledge of your field of concentration. Don't be afraid of expanding.

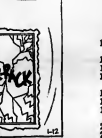

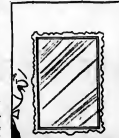

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 - Dec. 23)

A happy, social Saturday for the Sagittarius who has nursed friendships along. All should go well in personal relationships.
